KOREANS IN SIBERIA WHO OPPOSE JAPAN ARE ARRESTED

Zemstvo Will Investigate Graves Of 'Russians' Nipponese Buried

SEVERE FIGHTING

Radicals Retreating To Hills Will Launch Guerilla Warfare

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Vladivostok, April 18.—The Kiporisovski tunnel between Nikolsk and Vladivostok has been damaged by the "Partisans" and the telegraph wires are also down, so that news from the West is vague.

At the same time the Japanese occupied Vladivostok. They also occupied the railway line and important centers in the Priamur province. Severe fighting occurred at many places, notably at Nikolsk and Habarovsk, where there were many hundreds of casualties on both sides. The Russians are retreating to the hills and are preparing to carry on guerilla warfare. It is reported that the Japanese have blown up the bridge over the Amur near Habarovsk.

ANTI-JAP KOREANS HELD IN CUSTODY

Many anti-Japanese Koreans have been arrested all over the country. The Zemstvo have formed a committee to investigate the graves of Russians buried by the Japanese. The graves when found will be opened in the presence of foreign press representatives.

By April 16 trains were commencing to arrive from the West and the Inter-Allied railway commission decided to assist in restoring transportation.

The Koreans have appealed to the Consular Body for protection.

Agents provocateurs are spreading rumors that the differences between the Japanese and Czechs are unfounded.

The Japanese are not interfering with the Russian press which is constantly publishing protests against Japanese action.

Vladivostok is again quite normal. The Government organisations are working, the Russian police have been reinstated and the workmen's unions are again active. The only difference, since the recent Japanese occupation, is that the Russian military is non-existant.

GENERAL ROZANOV IS ON WAY TO FINLAND

Tokio, April 18.—General Rozanov leaves Yokohama today in the Andre Lebon for Europe, accompanied by his family and staff. General Rozanov proposes to proceed to Finland.

Copenhagen, April 14.—The Russian Trade Commissioners who arrived here on April 3 in order to negotiate regarding the resumption of trade between the Allies and Soviet Russia are anxious to proceed to London, but they refuse to leave without M. Litvinoff, the Soviet diplomatic representative, whom the British will not allow to enter the country. The Commissioners are trying to exercise pressure, by declining to do business with British commercial representatives visiting here.

London, April 15.—Reuter's Teheran correspondent telegraphs; the Caspian fleet of 15 ships has accepted disarmament and internment by Persia. Admiral Serocieff, who resisted internment, was deposited at Baku.

The democratic party at Tabriz, encouraged by the Germans, have expelled the Swedish police officers.

"RED" NAPOLEON LOSES IN BATTLE WITH POLES

Warsaw, April 15.—Following very heavy fighting in Podolia the Bolshevist army under the well-known Commissary Kaneneff nick-named the "Red Napoleon" after winning occasional successes has been badly defeated by the Poles. The 41st Bolshevist division constituting the vanguard was smashed, losing two commanders, eight guns and quantities of material. The next Bolshevist attack is expected North of the Pripet. The Poles are prepared and confident.

Christiania, April 16.—The All-Russian Trade-union Congress has passed a resolution declaring the necessity for workers to submit to military discipline during work and the necessity for a campaign against attempts to avoid work and for the adoption of a system of feeding workers in proportion to the economic and social importance of their work.

Agony Of Russians Exceeds That Of Any Other Race In Europe

Soviet Capital Dirty, And Pale-Faced, Emaciated People Shuffle Through Streets Dragging Food And Fuel Home On Sleds—Lenin And High Officials Flash Along In High-Powered Autos

Mr. Lincoln Eyre, author of articles on 1920 Russia and the results of Bolshevism, which are now appearing in THE CHINA PRESS, is the Paris correspondent of the New York World and went through many hazardous adventures while conducting his investigations. He is the first correspondent to enter Russia and study existing conditions there since the signing of the armistice. His articles, which appeared first in the New York World, have created international interest, not alone because of the disclosures he makes, but, also, because of the impartial manner in which he divulges the results of his investigation. The ninth article by Mr. Eyre will appear in tomorrow's issue of THE CHINA PRESS.

BY LINCOLN EYRE

PARIS, March 5.—The first thing that impressed itself with photographic clarity on my consciousness a few moments after our arrival in Moscow was the sight of Leon Trotsky, People's Commissary for War, racing through the Tverskaja in a big Rolls-Royce limousine. The second was the spectacle of an old woman dragging behind her a diminutive sled, heaped with small logs, falling down on the ice-slippery pavement.

That the old woman should have fallen was of little moment, for she was evidently unhurt, but that of many passersby not one should have gone to her assistance was a painful phenomenon. In any great city outside Russia a dozen persons would have hurried to help the old dame to her feet.

Now the Moscovites are not less kind or courteous than other folk; it is simply that if they undertook to pick up every woman who slipped down in the snow they would be thus engaged all day long. In Moscow there is too much big distress to make the lesser troubles even noticeable.

Comrade Trotsky and the poor little babooshka (grandmother) tottering along with her sled of logs, were both of the proletariat therefore both dictators over the erstwhile empire of the Tsars. Yet the difference between them was as broad as that separating Nicholas II from Leon Trotsky three years ago. That is the paradox of proletariat dictatorship—and of Moscow.

Substituting sleighs for taxicabs, snow for asphalt, and sheepskins and furs for tailor made clothes, the scene that met our eyes as we emerged from the big terminus in the capital of the Soviet Republic differs little from that which one beholds outside the Grand Central Station, New York. There were porters, though their skin was white—or fairly so—and they did not wear red caps. They were paid, and well paid for their services.

The taxi chauffeurs, or rather the sleigh-driving isvostchiki, also got paid and at exorbitant rates. Two thousand roubles our twenty-minute drive from the station to the Commissariat of Foreign Affairs cost us. As we still dispensed the roubles at the rate of twenty-five to a dollar this meant $80.

Officialy the Tsar rouble is worth no more than the Soviet rouble. One must find a clandestine money changer to obtain a more advantageous exchange.

Death And Misery In Moscow

One's first reaction to Moscow's confused. The city looks better and worse than one had pictured it. One has a momentary thrill at finding the streets full of people, with sleighs and automobiles scurrying briskly to and fro, instead of that desolate emptiness which somehow has become engraved upon one's imagination.

This feeling or belief soon gives way to intense depression, difficult of analysis, but none the less profound. One would achieve the same sensation perhaps by living in a cemetery.

For death is in the air at Moscow. Not the violent death fancied by those to whom a Bolshevik is primarily a murderer, but the intangible, inexorable death that goes with prolonged suffering and privation. One sees it in the dead-white faces of the people in their lack-lustre eyes, emaciated bodies, slow, stumbling gait. It seems to gaze down upon one from the unpainted facades and unwashed windows of the houses. It clutches one's throat when a skinny horse loses its footing, falls and does not rise again, or when one passes the carcass of a dog sprawling in the snow banks along the gutter.

I exaggerate, of course. But to drive home the picture of Moscow as I saw it a certain amount of exaggeration is necessary. This I say flatly without exaggeration: Of all the suffering I have witnessed throughout the war on the battlefields, among pitiful refugees of France and Belgium, and in starving, beaten Germany, none even approaches the agony endured through months and years by many millions of the Russian people.

The dirtiness that one senses rather than sees in Moscow's thoroughfares is chiefly due, I believe, to a rather peculiar factor. Successive Russian Governments, the Soviets more than any other, have plastered the walls of buildings all over the city with all sorts of posters, placards and bulletins.

There being no time or labor power sufficient to tear this matter down after it has served its purpose, it remains where it is, growing constantly dirtier and more dog-eared, until some new announcement is pasted over it. Torn and dirty white paper is about the most uncleanly looking thing there is, and every Moscow street is literally lined with it.

Food Dragged Home On Sleds

That which was to me the most depressing single ingredient in the composition of the street scenes was the perpetual dragging of sleds laden with food or fuel on the part of virtually the entire population. When one can appreciate the fearful effect required to keep barely alive, these sleds with their pathetic little cargoes became a kind of symbol of the Russians' Calvary.

I used to catch myself wondering how far that distinguished looking, white haired old chap had had to go to get the two loaves of black bread and six small logs tied onto his sled, or how long that hollow eyed little mother carrying her baby in her arms would have to live on the three sickly cabbages and tiny sack of meal her sled bore.

Mostly the streets are silent save for a dull shuffling of feet through the snow (during ten weeks that I spent in Russia there was always a thick carpet of snow and ice outdoors).

Even the sleighs slide along noiselessly, and only an occasional gutteral wail will be heard from an isvostchik signalling to pedestrians that it is coming. Silence is ripped asunder, however, when a Soviet automobile or motor truck puts in an appearance.

Shrieking a frenzied warning on the noisiest variety of siren horns, these machines flash along at a speed that would turn a New York traffic cop's hair gray. Those in the juggernaut's path step wearily aside, inhaling the nauseating benzol fumes it leaves behind

U. S. CHECKS PROFITEERS DURING BIG RAIL STRIKE

Twelve Million Pounds Of Beef Distributed At Cost Price

SITUATION ACUTE

Union Leaders Are Taken Into Custody; Revolution Plot Feared

(Reuter's Service)

New York, April 15.—With a view to checking the upward trend of prices in consequence of the strike, the Government is distributing 12,000,000 pounds of beef at cost price.

The strike is spreading to the longshoremen, necessitating embargoes on freights and thus affecting export shipping. Hitherto no passenger lines have postponed sailings.

New Orleans, April 14.—Federal warrants have been issued for the arrest of the leaders of the contemplated strike by the Railway Yardsmen's Association. It is asserted that the men will be charged with attempting to interfere with inter-State commerce.

Chicago, April 16.—Six officials of the "outlaw" railway unions have been arrested on charges of violation of the law, forbidding interference with the movement of food and fuel supplies. Mr. Grunau, the President of the Yardsmen's Association which started the strike has also been arrested. The arrests of other strike leaders are being proceeded with. The prisoners have been liberated on bail of $10,000 each.

FOOD PROBLEM IN NEW YORK AGGRAVATED

New York, April 16.—All reports indicate that the climax of the railway strike has been reached and that the return of the workers has begun, especially in the Middle West. The strikers in the East have gained some recruits but volunteers are helping to normalise conditions. The food problem in New York may be aggravated by the strike of the truckmen who supply the markets. The police reserves have been called out to protect the volunteers who are temporarily replacing the truckmen in order to prevent famine in the city. Many fights have occurred between strikers and the volunteers and police.

London, April 15.—The Times New York correspondent, telegraphing yesterday said that President Wilson presided at a Cabinet meeting to consider the railway strike. He was in splendid spirits and felt no ill effects. The President will be permitted to hold similar meetings at least once a week until he departs for his summer home.

HUNDREDS OF THOUSANDS ARE THROWN OUT OF WORK

New York, April 14.—The strike situation in the East is most acute, but it appears generally to have improved in the West where the strikers in half a dozen cities and towns have resumed work. Nevertheless hundreds of thousands of persons have been thrown idle by the works closing down.

A strikers meeting at Jersey City unanimously rejected all overtures for peace.

No untoward incidents are re-

Soviet Ambassador To America Found To Be Enemy Alien

(Reuter's Service)

Washington, April 15.—The Senate committee, which has been considering the case of the so-called Soviet Ambassador, Martens, has found him to be a German subject and therefore an enemy alien. The Committee stated that he should be dealt with by the Department of Justice.

Sultan Filmed In Palace For First Time In History

"Little mother" outside Palace gates
Mohammed VI of Turkey

For the first time in the history of Turkey a Sultan has posed before the camera of an American photographer, a member of the International News. This concession was made by Mohammed VI., who is the son of the notorious Abdul Hamid termed "Abdul the Damned" and the "Bloody Sultan." The pictures published here for the first time are doubly interesting in view of the decision of the Allies to strip the Sultan of his army and navy. The picture of Mohammed VI. was made in the throne room of the royal palace at Constantinople. The Sultan consented to pose for two minutes for the International News camera man. In the upper left is shown a group of the Sultan's aides and military advisers on the steps of the royal palace. In the lower left is shown a "little mother" and her charge. They, along with thousands of others, await outside the gates of the Royal Palace for a glimpse of the Sultan. The youngsters are characteristic of the crowds that assemble to see the Turkish ruler.

Guilds Urge That Litigants Deposit Money With Third Party

While the British Supreme Court granted yesterday in favor of Mr. Chang Shih-chao, representative of General Tsen Chun-hsuan, an interim injunction restraining the Hongkong and Shanghai Bank from releasing funds deposited in the name of Dr. Wu Ting-fang, pending the decision in the Mixed Court, two leading guilds have urged the litigants to arrive at an agreement whereby the money in question may be deposited with some non-political body which shall act as trustees.

The guilds consider the action taken in the British and Mixed Courts as detrimental to the national honor of China and maintain that as the money was proposed to be utilised for the Southwestern University it should be deposited with some public organisation or organisations in order to insure the use of the funds for no other purpose and to stop all further dispute.

The letter which the Canton Guild addressed yesterday to Dr. Wu Ting-fang and to Mr. Chang Shih-chao follows:

"Since the begining of the internal strife, the militarists and politicians of the country have taken the people's money, earned through hard labor, to achieve their private ends, regardless of the national interest. The nation has suffered from death, famines and poverty for many years, due to the intrigues of the militarists and politicians.

WANT UNIVERSITY

"The truth of these intrigues are now disclosed by the dissensions among the militarists and politicians. According to the press, the customs surplus assigned to the South has been reserved for the uses of the proposed Southwestern University.

"The disposal of this money has precipitated an impasse. Law suits have been repeatedly filed, first in the Supreme Court in Hongkong and now in the Mixed Court in Shanghai. These funds belong to China. But their disposition has now to be determined by foreign law.

"By filing these suits, the militarists have done great harm to the national honor of China, their fatherland, as well as to their own reputations. For the customs surplus in question is an integral part of the national treasury.

"We do not propose to discuss now as to who shall finally determine the disposition to be made of these funds. But failing to see that any substantial benefit has accrued to the people of China from the internal political strife of the past few years, the people of China look forward to the Southwestern University as a blessing.

"However, the university is still in the process of organisation. It does not yet need the funds. We therefore recommend that the funds be transferred for the present to some public, non-political bodies, which shall act as trustees. We believe that this measure will prevent all further dispute and will save the honor of China and the individuals involved in this controversy."

TANG CHI-YAO SUPPORTS

At the same time the Ningpo Guild is drafting a similar letter.

General Tang Chi-yao, Tuchun of Yunnan, has openly issued a

Propaganda Against U.S. Merchant Marine Sensed By Admiral

(Reuter's Service)

New York, April 14.—Rear-Admiral Benson, in the course of an address before the Marine League, declared that propaganda was being used against the American merchant marine in an endeavor to tear down "what we are bent upon making permanent, a merchant marine of ships built in America, owned by American capital, sailing under the American flag and carrying the products of this country to all parts of the world."

Admiral Benson added that unity of action was necessary in order that the United States might profit by its merchant men and take advantage of the big commercial opportunities resulting from the war.

MERCHANTS WILL NOT JOIN STRIKE

Telegram To Peking Merely Expressed Sympathy With Students

Merchants in Shanghai will not join in the students' strike although they are sympathetic according to statements given out by leaders of the Street Union yesterday.

Shopkeepers say a strike does not help matters when Peking turns a deaf ear to the students. They hesitate to join the strike, because if they did, the labor element would follow them, they say.

The decision of the Street Union at a meeting Sunday to send a telegram to Peking expressing sympathy with the students and demanding abrogation of secret treaties and no direct negotiations with Japan over Shantung caused speculation. Inquiries however brought out the fact that the organisation had neither threatened a strike nor placed a time limit to their demands.

Student strikers visited headquarters of the Union and asked the merchants to join them temporarily. They were told of the organisation's decision not to participate.

Guatemala Revolt Ends; President Is Asked To Abdicate

Havana, April 14.—Eight American sailors were drowned today as the result of an explosion setting fire to their launch.

BRITISH TROOPS IN COUNTY CLARE CLASH WITH IRISH

Fire On Crowds Celebrating Prisoners' Release—New Raid In Dublin

(Reuter's Service)

London, April 15.—Police and military, dispersing a crowd at Miltown Malday (County Clare) who were celebrating the release of the prisoners in Dublin, were fired on from the crowd. The troops returned the fire. It is reported that three men were killed and others wounded.

London, April 15.—Indescribable scenes followed the announcement of the release of the prisoners in Mountjoy prison. Access to the prison was impossible owing to the huge jubilating throngs. The announcement was received with roars of cheering. Women fainted in the crowds.

It is understood that General Sir Nevil Macready was mainly responsible for producing the dramatic reversal of policy.

He informed Lord French on his arrival that he must be given a clear field owing to his new position as Commander-in-Chief in Ireland.

MAIL HELD UP

London, April 15.—A big military raid was carried out on many houses in the poor quarter of Dublin at two o'clock this morning. Numerous arrests were made.

London, April 16.—All but five of the hundred persons who were arrested in the military raid in Dublin yesterday morning have been released.

Eleven more hunger-strikers have been released.

Fifty armed men held up the mail train at Kinsale Junction, Co. Cork, today and seized all letters addressed to Bandon police headquarters.

London, April 15.—The offices of the Crown Solicitor representing the police at the inquest on the death of the Lord Mayor of Cork, who was shot by a band of masked men at his residence in the early hours of March 20, were raided today and all the documents concerned were destroyed.

CONCESSIONS TO IRISH

London, April 14.—It is understood that the Government has decided to modify the treatment of untried political prisoners in Ireland and that concessions are already in operation.

The Irish strikers' executive has appealed for the support of British trade-unionists.

The military authorities have decided not to prosecute the Mountjoy prisoners who have been discharged. One of them was hunger-striking.

The Times is of opinion that the conditions of the Irish struggle are wholly unfavorable to the Government. "The collapse of the hunger-strike," the journal states, "will scarcely prove a serious deterrent to disorder while it continues, the executive will either be morally defeated or, if the hunger strikers die, will be faced with an outburst of Irish fury."

FRENCH ASK FOR END OF MILITARISM IN GERMANY

Fear Teuton Junkers Are Prepared For Second Revolt

BERLIN GUARDED

Tanks And Machine Guns Brought To Protect Public Buildings

LABOR WARNED

Pomerania And Silesia Are Menaced By Baltic Troops

(Reuter's Service)

Paris, April 15.—The San Remo conference must see the end of German militarism. This sums up the French public opinion, and the sentiment is echoed in the entire French press.

It is felt in Paris that the Junkers are now making a desperate bid for power, and in fact it would cause no surprise if the next few days were to see another monarchist-militarist coup in Germany like that attempted by Dr. Kapp.

The importance attached by M. Millerand to the discussion of Germany's military power and its reduction to such limits that France need no long fear for the safety of her Rhine frontier is shown by the fact that Marshal Foch and his Chief of Staff, General Weygand, are to accompany the French Premier to San Remo tomorrow evening. Mr. Bonar Law, Lord Curzon and M. Venizelos will also accompany M. Millerand from Paris.

BERLIN STILL FEARS REACTIONARY COUP

Berlin, April 15.—The German Government has brought 15 tanks and 20 motor machine-guns into Berlin to guard public buildings as they fear a reactionary coup.

In the National Assembly today, Herr Gessler, the Minister of Defense, announced that he had given orders for the arrest of Major Ehrhardt, the commanders of the Baltic naval brigade, a portion of which was being conveyed to Muenster where it would be disbanded and disarmed, forcibly if necessary.

He said that the news from Pomerania was most serious and warned the Conservatives that the Government would not permit fresh disturbances. The Minister said that the Government troops could not leave the Ruhr until the workers had surrendered all arms.

Berlin, April 15.—The Junkers and Spartacists are openly preparing civil war. They are accumulating war material, aeroplanes and gas bombs. The Junkers are planning to isolate and starve out Berlin and the industrial cities. Estate owners in Pomerania are already holding back produce. It is stated that Munich may possibly be the scene of the next revolt.

GERMANS MUST GIVE UP FLOATING DOCK TONNAGE

Paris, April 16.—M. Millerand announced last night that Lord Derby had communicated information tending to confirm the fears of a fresh reactionary coup in Germany and that he had asked that France should join Great Britain in making strong representations to Germany with regard to her failure to carry out disarmament.

Paris, April 15.—The Council of Ambassadors has adopted the report of the Naval Commission with regard to the handing over of floating-dock tonnage by Germany. The Commission discovered 192,000 tons of floating docks in Germany.

London, April 15.—In the House of Commons today, Mr. Winston Churchill, Secretary of State for War, stated that the Inter-allied Military Commission had reported that the following German guns were available for destruction in accordance with the treaty; field guns, 6,500; field howitzers, 2,500; heavy guns 5,000; while another 3,800 guns on the southern and eastern fortifications had to be handed over.

Thus altogether 17,800 German guns were being destroyed by the Inter-allied Commission.

Mr. Churchill further announced that the Air Ministry estimated that Germany had 15,000 aeroplanes available for war purposes. These were now being listed with a view to being taken over by the Inter-allied Commission. The work, Mr. Churchill said, was being accelerated with all possible speed and the German authorities were not adopting a controversial attitude in this connection.

CHANCELLOR MUELLER SEES GRAVE DANGER

Berlin, April 16.—In the National Assembly today Herr Wirth, Minister of Finance, stated that Germany's consolidated debt on March 31 amounted to 92,000,000,000 marks and her floating debt to 105,000,000,000 marks and that the latter would be further greatly increased.

Berlin, April 16.—The Vossische Zeitung states that the property of the leaders of the Kapp revolt has been confiscated.

Mr. Churchill added that he was quite satisfied with the course which was being pursued together by the British and French, which was conducive to one of the most important objects, namely the disarmament of Germany.

Berlin, April 14.—Speaking in the National Assembly yesterday Herr Mueller, the Chancellor, said that danger still threatened, specially in Pomerania and Silesia where the Baltic troops were quartered.

The Chancellor warned reactionaries that the general strike would be repeated if a repetition of the Kapp adventure were attempted. He condemned the ambition entertained by the reactionary supporters of the officers corps to establish a military dictatorship which was quite impossible in Germany.

Paris, April 14.—Information which has been received in Paris indicating that the German Government has at last given orders for the withdrawal of the Reichswehr from the Ruhr.

Paris, April 14.—Baron von Lersner, formerly head of the German peace delegation, speaking at a great meeting at Cologne, said that Germany would fulfil such conditions of the Versailles treaty as she could but that it was the duty of every German to demand the revision of the treaty.

Ship Canal Project On Great Lakes Is Hit By Engineers

(Reuter's Service)

Washington, April 15.—The Federal Engineering Corps, in a report presented to Congress today, said that it disapproved of the construction at the present time, by the Government, of a ship-canal, connecting Lakes Erie and Ontario, on the ground that such a waterway would not justify the expense of construction until an outlet had been provided for deep-sea ships through the St. Lawrence.

Lower House O.K's Plan For U.S. Army Force Of 175,000

(Reuter's Service)

Washington, April 16.—The House of Representatives, considering the military appropriation bill today, approved the proposal for an army of 175,000 men and 16,000 officers for the year beginning in July. No efforts were made to increase the force though the army reorganisation bill provides for a peace-time army of approximately 300,000.

U.S. Army Officer's Wife, Kidnapped By Mexicans Released

El Paso, April 15.—Two Mexicans have kidnapped Mrs. R. L. Stanford the wife of a cavalryman at Fort Bliss and carried her off to Juarez.

El Paso, April 17.—Mrs. R. L. Stanford, who was kidnapped by Mexicans and taken to Juarez, has now been released.

GERMAN KAISERIN AFFLICTED WITH CARDIAC AILMENT

(Reuter's Service)

Amsterdam, April 15.—It is reported from Amerongen that the condition of the ex-Kaiserin, who is suffering from heart trouble, is not disquieting.

Burnished brass, shining in the sunlight of one of the few fair days that Spring has allowed the denizens of Shanghai to enjoy this year, glinted and glistened and aroused the cupidity of a coolie who was meandering down Temple lane.

"Very pretty," he meditated, without thought of ownership.

And to think was to act.

Muy pronto he hurried onto the verandas of the homes of Mr. U. S. K. Craddock, Mr. R. Ockwell and several other residents of that district and with submarine ruthlessness sank without trace the brass name plates which informed friends and the general public of the identity of the members of that particular community.

But when he sought to convert the base metal into coin the coolie was in error.

The "Fence" wasn't as close mouthed as the requirements of his profession demand and he talked in a tea shop.

Police descended and both robber and "Fence" went to jail. They'll stay there for six months, British Assessor Grant Jones and Magistrate Li have decided.

"The signs were pretty and I couldn't resist the temptation," explained the coolie in court.

ported, but six strike leaders at New Orleans have been arrested on a charge of interfering with the mails.

Officials of the Department of Justice at Washington announce that they have found evidence that the Industrial Workers of the World are inciting the strikers and that there are signs of an attempt to expand the railroad strike into a revolution.

Washington, April 14.—President Wilson has nominated a railroad labor board to consider the grievances of the strikers. The Board comprises three representatives each of the public, the railroads and the employes.

STRIKERS REPLACED BY UNIVERSITY MEN

Washington, April 17.—The Senate has confirmed the appointment of the Railway Labor Board, the formation of which was announced in a proclamation by President Wilson.

New York, April 13.—In emulation of Great Britain's example, the mobilisation of 700,000 motor lorries for the conveyance of food is contemplated.

The situation in the West is unchanged except that more trains are running. The number of strikers in the East has further increased, notably at Chicago and at Detroit where the strike is holding up raw material.

One hundred students at Johns Hopkins University, Baltimore, have been permitted to replace strikers at Philadelphia. The liftmen at the fifty-one-storey Woolworth building in New York have struck.

Slough Motor Depot Sold To Ford Agent

(Reuter's Service)

London, April 15.—It was announced in the House of Commons this evening that the purchaser of the Slough motor depot is Sir Percival Perry who was Director of Traction, Ministry of Munitions 1918-1919. Sir Percival Perry is the European representative of the Ford Company.

BELGIAN INVASION WAS FORESEEN BY LORD KITCHENER

New Biography Of Him Shows That He Rightly Foresaw German Strategy

(Reuter's Service)

London, April 14.—The Evening Standard is publishing extracts from Sir George Arthur's forthcoming Life of Lord Kitchener, which show that Lord Kitchener correctly forecasted German strategy.

The French General Staff expected an invasion of the Meuse and not of Belgium but Lord Kitchener, anticipating a sweep through Belgium, urged a British concentration at Amiens not at Maubeuge as he was convinced that the latter would involve retirement at the risk of the demoralisation of the troops.

Mr. Asquith declined to overrule the majority of the British and French experts, including Lord French (then Sir John French), in favor of Maubeuge and Lord Kitchener surrendered with the result of the Mons retreat.

SOUGHT ALLIED HARMONY

With regard to Lord Kitchener's persistence that Sir John French should conform to the movements of the French, Sir George Arthur states that Lord Kitchener considered it essential to preserve contact and co-operation between the Allies at all costs.

London, April 15.—Further extracts from Sir George Arthur's life of Lord Kitchener published in the Evening Standard today deal with the interview between Lord Kitchener and Sir John French on April 14, 1915 at which, according to Mr. Asquith, Sir John French assured Lord Kitchener that he had enough ammunition for the next advance.

Sir George Arthur contributes a new document, quoting a letter written by Sir John French on May 2, 1915, in which he says "The ammunition will be all right."

LACKED MUNITIONS WORKS

Dealing with the War Office record in the supply of munitions Sir George Arthur says that Lord Kitchener complained of the absence of all machinery for producing munitions and declares that the War Office, not Sir John French, first proposed the use of high explosive for field-guns, but a hesitating reply was received from France.

Sir George Arthur adds that it was Lord Kitchener who had called in Lord Moulton, who acquired and transferred to England the totuol factory, which had been established by the Germans at Rotterdam.

By-Election Results

(Reuter's Service)

London, April 15.—Mr. C. A. McCurdy, the Minister of Food, was re-elected for Northampton today. The result of the polling was as follows:

Mr. C. A. McCurdy (Liberal)	16,650
Miss Bondfield (Labor)	13,279

London, April 14.—The result of the Northwest Camberwell by-election was announced today:

Doctor Macnamara (Coalition Liberal)	6,618
Miss Lawrence (Labor)	4,733
Mr. J. C. Carroll (Liberal)	3,386

The result of the Basingstoke by-election, also declared today, was as follows:

Sir A. Holbrook (Coalition Unionist)	8,515
Sir H. Verney (Liberal)	5,293
Mr. J. H. Round (Labor)	5,252

Nyassaland Would Impose New Export Charge On Cotton

(Reuter's Service)

London, April 15.—In the House of Commons today Sir J. D. Rees suggested that the Governor of Nyassaland should be instructed to delay the imposition of an export duty on cotton until parliament had approved the levying of export duty on raw products from British possessions.

Lieut.-Col. L. C. M. Amery, Parliamentary Under-Secretary of State for the Colonies, replying said he doubted the desirability of Parliament discussing the budgets of British colonies and protectorates before they could be approved.

'The Outcast'

This is not the first occasion that this play has been performed in Shanghai, and its plot is probably familiar to local theatergoers; but in their handling of it Miss Marie Tempest and Mr. Garham Browne must have surprised the many who have been enjoying the sparkling repartee and lighter situations of their previous comedies: in fact, at first some of the audience seemed to think that, because Miss Tempest was playing, it was therefore a "Comedy" and it was a tribute to the real acting of the cast that by the second act the audience really seemed to have grasped the fact that it was serious play.

To those who have enjoyed Miss Tempest's incomparable charm in light comedy, her performance must have come as a revelation. She carried her audience with her completely and her characterisation of "Myriam" was wonderfully human and equal. One could only wonder what she would have been had she made tragedy her special study.

Mr. Graham Browne shared the honors equally. His portrayal of the man, broken by drugs and drink, rising to self conquest and finally acknowledging the moral responsibility incurred by his conduct, was certainly his best performance in Shanghai and will be remembered long after his other parts are forgotten.

The rest of the cast were good and adequate for their smaller parts. Perhaps the most convincing was Mr. Ashton Jarry who, as the barrister about town, helped to make the play the success that it undoubtedly was.

"The Outcast" will be repeated tonight.

LOCAL RECEPTION FOR FIRST ROME PLANE TO ARRIVE

Because of the accident of Captain Gordesco, Commander-in-Chief of the Italian Army fliers in the Rome-Tokio flight, who crashed at Bushire and with his aide, Lieut. Grazzi, lost his life, the reception for the airmen, originally planned to take place on the arrival of leader, will be held in honor of the first machine that arrives here. The first machine piloted by Masiero is now in Hanoi, while the second piloted by Lieut. Ferrarin is in Bangkok. They are expected to be here on April 23 or 25, April 24 being race day in Kiangwan.

The decision to change the plans was made yesterday morning at the Italian Consulate. Lieut. Commander T. S. Chu, epresenting the Central Government in the reception, was telegraphically informed and requested to come to Shanghai immediately.

The first machine will remain here for at least a week. It cannot leave for Tsingtao until May 3, because the aerodrome there will be engaged up to that time.

During the week there will be private as well as official entertainments.

WOMAN'S PART IN MAN'S SUCCESS—Often the strongest impulse to save comes from the woman of the household.

¶ Every man should consider himself fortunate who has a wife or mother who helps him to save money.

¶ The important part about saving is not the amount of money you set aside each week. The essential thing is the firm decision to save a definite, regular sum, no matter how small it may be.

¶ Even $1, saved regularly each week, will make your savings grow amazingly.

¶ And this bank helps by adding four per cent, compounded semi-annually.

OLD PARLIAMENT CRITICISES TSEN

South Head Alleged To Be Intriguing With North For Private Gains

Branding General Tsen Chun-hsuan, Canton Administrative Councillor, as a traitor who has bargained with the North for selfish interests, Mr. Lin Sun, president of the old Senate, Mr. Wu Ching-lien and Mr. Chu Fu-chen, Speaker and Vice-Speaker of the House, yesterday sent a telegram to the provincial assemblies, educational associations, chambers of commerce, agricultural associations, industrial and labor organisations, the league of all classes, the student unions, the press and other organisations, enumerating alleged intrigues in which Tsen was said to be involved during internal peace negotiations.

The message said in part:

"It was to our surprise that Mr. Tsen Chun-hsuan, Administrative Director, since his assuming office, has been disgracefully intriguing with the North for a dishonorable peace in exchange for such selfish interests as money, positions of Civil and Military Governorships, Cabinet Ministers, and the directorship of railways for eight provinces.

"These were at first only press rumors. But in his telegram dated March 11 to General Tang Chi-yao, Administrative Director, Mr. Tsen Chun-hsuan openly asks the former's agreement to the five proposals made by the Tuchuns of several Northern Provinces for settlement of the present situation.

"Of these proposals the first being the dissolution of the National Assembly and the "invention" of a so-called United Provincial Assemblies Conference, the second being the cancellation of independence of the South-West and the recognition of the illegally elected President, Hsu Shih-chang, the other three proposals being nothing more than the violation of laws, aiming merely at their selfish interests.

"The diplomatic question, for which the whole nation has been crying aloud, is to be left to the illegal authority of the North, while the nation-hated military despotism is to be maintained through direct negotiation by the militarists of both the North and the South. All of these movements are defiantly ignoring the will of the people and seriously injuring the welfare of the nation.

"The Administrative Council of the Military Government at Canton, since the departure of Dr. Wu Ting-fang, Administrative Director, holding concurrently the office of the Minister of Foreign Affairs and the office of the Minister of Finance, has not sufficient members to form a quorum, and therefore any act of this Administrative Council can no longer produce effect. But Dr. Wu Ting-fang continues to assume all the responsibilites of the Minister of Finance of the Military Government.

"As speakers of the National Assembly we pledge our faithfulness to the Constitutional cause and will exert our utmost to work with the people until our original object for which the Constitutional cause was started shall have been accomplished."

HONGKONG TRAMS RUN BY SAILORS

Effort Made By Employers And And Strikers To End Walkout Fails

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Hongkong, April 19.—Men of the Royal Navy are now running the Peak Tramways with a curtailed service.

Thirty outside fitters at the gas-works have struck. The service is being maintained but inconvenience will result if lights or meters require attention.

The donkey-men at the Kowloon wharves have struck, causing delay in handling goods in and out of godowns.

Hongkong, April 19.—Mr. J. Johnstone presided at a meeting this morning of employers and men's representatives who had been sent to Hongkong by the Fitters and Turners Guild in Canton. The Secretary for Chinese Affairs was also present.

The men's representatives, four in number, stated that they were fully empowered to discuss and settle the final terms of agreement.

GOVERNMENT INTERVENTION

The employers' offer of a graded percentage increase varying from 35.7 percent to 30 percent for men on present salaries of from 70 cents to $1.20 per diem and falling to 20 percent only for a few of the highest paid men was rejected.

The men asked for a flat percentage rate of increase and named 37 percent.

After further discussion, the whole question was reconsidered and an offer was made by the employers of a 32 percent increase throughout.

Later.—Owing to the adamant attitude of the strikers, it is stated that recourse will probably be had to seeking Government intervention for a settlement of the dispute.

The employers have gone as far as they reasonably can in order to meet the strikers' demands.

Hongkong Yarn Report

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Hongkong, April 18.—The Chamber of Commerce cotton yarn report says:

A fair volume of business has been transacted. Values ruled very irregular, the net result being a slight advance in prices of lower counts owing to the decline of exchange. Latterly owing to the financial panic in Japan which brought down yarn values there by about 140 yen during the fortnight, the market here closed very dull.

STEAMSHIP FIRM AWARDED MILLION FOR SHIP'S LOSS

Final Chapter In Tragedy Closes When Peking Pays Compensation

The claim of the China Merchants' Steam Navigation against the Government for the sinking of the steamer Kiangkwan two years ago has been settled. The Peking Government has agreed to compensate the company with government bonds of the eighth year of the Republic amounting to $1,000,000. In addition the administration sets aside bonds of the fourth year of the Republic amounting to $500,000 to indemnify the families of the passengers drowned in the accident.

This closes one of the most tragic chapters in the navigation history of China. The Kiangkwan was alleged to have been rammed by a gunboat belonging to the Hupeh Government at Chenkuchi near Hankow and was a total loss. Over two hundred passengers were drowned.

The Peking Government subsequently appointed a Special Naval Court of Inquiry which sat in Shanghai at the Admiralty House for over a year. Three times, the claimants, the China Merchants Steam Navigation Company, withdrew and alleged that the Court was partial. The tribunal finally rendered a decision without hearing the case of the claimants. The decision affixed the blame on the claimants and exonerated the gunboat. The claimants appealed, but the appeal was never heard.

England Looks For Sugar Price Raise

(Reuter's Service)

London, April 16.—The Food Ministry foreshadows an increase in the price of sugar.

It is understood that owing to the fact that contracts for supplies of sugar were made well ahead, Great Britain has been independent of the Cuban crop, for which a big price is demanded Great Britain hitherto has been living more or less on her stocks and these are becoming exhausted, hence the inevitable rise which will probably be twopence per pound making the price a shilling a pound.

It is pointed out that dependence on Cuban supplies would have meant a present payment of eighteen pence per pound with an early increase, owing to the present crop being reported poor.

Every day your complexion pays toll to dust and wind

The rough, cold winds chap and roughen the skin; dry heated air draws and parches it. The constant strain under which we live—the ceaseless activity of crowded days, the constant effort, the lack of rest—all these things take daily toll of the complexion.

You can protect your complexion from the wear and tear of both summer and winter—can prevent that tired, drawn look from appearing in your face, by giving your skin the care it needs.

Apply a little Pond's Vanishing Cream when you motor or travel; rub it in lightly. This will protect the sensitive pores from grit and grime, will keep your skin free from that parched feeling that generally follows exposure to dust and dirt.

It has a wonderfully beautifying effect, and as a base for powder it is so effective that one powdering is sufficient for the whole evening.

This fragrant, dewy cream contains a skin-softening ingredient of great value, one that skin specialists recognize as most efficient in keeping the skin supple, for giving it the transparent freshness everyone admires.

BANK INJUTCTION TIEING UP WU'S MONEY CONSINUED

statement supporting the action of Dr. Wu Ting-fang in keeping the funds of the Canton Government. In a telegram received here yesterday, General Tang recognises Dr. Wu still as the Minister of Foreign Affairs and Acting Minister of Finance.

The telegram reads:

"At the reorganisation of the Military Government in 1918, which was based upon the amended constitution of the Military Government passed by the Parliament in extraordinary session in Canton, seven administrative directors were elected to form the Administrative Council to take charge of all political affairs.

"I was elected as one of the seven administrative directors and sent Chu Fan to represent me on the Council. Since the resignation of Chu Fan in February this year, which was accepted, I have not appointed another representative. So from and after the day when Chu Fan resigned, I am not responsible for any action of the Military Government.

"Recently, I received a telegram from Administrative Director Wu Ting-fang saying that having been urged by Dr. Sun Yat-sen and Mr. Tang Shao-yi and advised by members of Parliament, he left Canton on the 29th ult.

"The Administrative Council of the Military Government must have a majority of its seven directors to form a quorum. At present, with Dr. Wu Ting-fang's departure and absence of representatives from Dr. Sun Yat-sen, Mr. Tang Shao-yi and myself, the Administrative Council of the Military Government no longer exists. Therefore all its alleged actions have no legal effect.

"Dr. Wu Ting-fang has recently left Canton, but he has not resigned as Minister for Foreign Affairs and Minister of Finance. Also the Parliament has not shown any sign of granting Dr. Wu Ting-fang's resignation. So he should be and is still in charge of Foreign and Financial affairs of the South Western Provinces."

JUDGMENT DELIVERED

Judgment was delivered in the British Supreme Court yesterday by Judge Skinner Turner in the application by Mr. Chiang Shih-chao against the Hongkong and Shanghai Bank to tie up the accounts of Dr. Wu. After giving his opinion in great length, the judge ordered that the injunction be continued until after the judgment in the Mixed Court when both parties may be at liberty to apply for new orders, defendants to have the cost of the motion in any event.

Mr. McLeod, representing the applicant, said that since that application had been made proceedings had been begun in the Mixed Court, a petition had been filed and notice of motion had been served on the defendant's counsel, Mr. Fessenden, and on Saturday morning on an ex parte application an injunction was granted. Under the circumstances he would only ask that the bank be restrained as long as there was an injunction running in the Mixed Court concerning any monies which the bank may hold in terms of the order.

The Court: The terms of the order of the Mixed Court are wide also.

Mr. McLeod agreed. Dr. Wu may appear and it may be that he will be quite innocent. That would limit it very much. Of course they did not know what he had done with the government funds.

ORDER COVERS ALL MONIES

The Court said the difficulty was that the order as it ran covered all monies.

Mr. McLeod agreed that it covered all monies in the bank. He added that he did not know how he could limit it at present. In the notice of motion in the Mixed Court they had asked for a statement, they had actually said 24 hours as to what had been done with these monies, and although he had no instructions on the point he imagined that his clients were prepared to take Dr. Wu's word as to what he had done with the money. The bank did not say what the monies were. In the absence of a statement by the bank and by Dr. Wu they had to get the order, and give an opportunity to him to describe what monies were standing to his name.

The Court said he had that idea in mind. The affidavit referred to monies paid in March. At the present moment there might be a great deal more monies covered by the injunction than the monies paid in March.

Mr. McLeod agreed.

The Court added that the injunction would cover monies paid in February and January, even cover monies paid in March and April.

Mr. McLeod remarked that that was the only exact information of a detailed kind they had. At the present moment the order of the Mixed Court extended to all monies which the bank held in the name of Dr. Wu Ting-fang being Government monies.

The Court said that the bank was not in a position apparently to say what was the difference between one set of monies and another set of monies.

BANK SHOULD INQUIRE

Mr. McLeod suggested that that could not be arrived at without asking: funds were some times described, but in this particular case they did not know. Now an order had been made on the bank to restrain it from dealing with a customer, it was for the bank to enquire which was the government money and which was Dr. Wu's money. There was no harm in issuing that order, for it was in Dr. Wu's power to inform them. As soon as he told them they could deal with it, if the only account in the bank was Government money. If there was another, it should be a separate account. Counsel contended that if he was entitled to an injunction at all it must be in the present form and the order could be limited to a week so as to give them ample time.

The Court: The question is the limit of time. As Mr. McNeill had remarked it was obviously impossible to run the order for an indefinite or indeterminate time. They should push on the proceedings with all due speed.

Mr. McLeod agreed.

The Court said that what was suggested was that the order be continued for another seven days in its present form. The difficulty was that the customer could not draw on any account he might have at the bank. The order was quite as wide as that.

Mr. McLeod said the order made against Dr. Wu was limited and against Government money. If he would come forward and tell them what were Goverament and private money it would be right. He was the only party to be injured by the order. He had been asked to make a statement as soon as possible.

After further discussion, the Court decided that the injunction remain in force in its present form until the judgment of the Mixed Court. The return day was adjourned sine die and costs on the motion were granted.

BELGIAN LINE BUYS 10 SHIP

Board Will Deliver Vessels After Cargoes Are Discharged

New York, March 1.—The Lloyd Royal Belge of Antwerp announced yesterday that it had purchased from the United States Shipping Board ten standard steel steamships. The sale was made through the Anderson Overseas Corporation, and the Shipping Board has agreed to turn over the vessels as soon as they have discharged their cargoes in American waters.

All of the steamships are of 9,000 tons, designed to make 9½ knots. They were built in 1917.

As soon as delivery of the ships is made they will be transferred to Belgian registry and manned by Belgian crews. Some of the crews will be taken from other ships of the Belgian Lloyd, and arrangements are under way to bring a sufficient number of men here from Antwerp to provide the full complement. The vessels will be divided between the Antwerp service of the line in the Baltic and that to Spain and Portugal.

After lunch the way of the cross was made at the picturesque stations on the hillside. The party returned to Shanghai at 8:30 p.m.

Montagu's Silver Report

(Reuter's Service)

London, April 15.—Messrs. Montagu's silver report says:

The tendency to a downward cash price is supported by the demand for prompt delivery on account of Indian bazaars and elsewhere.

The news from China is unpromising. A considerable amount of silver, representing contracts shortly falling due, has been placed on the market and, owing to the dull outlook has not been replaced by fresh forward contracts.

The continent continues to sell with a degree of freedom although the large discount on forward silver has not encouraged the heavy sales obtained in preceding weeks.

The congestion of refineries may keep the forward rate at a discount though, unless China is prepared to sell for forward delivery, the present difference between the two quotations seems unduly large."

Chinese Boy Scout Movement

The official inauguration of the Chinese Boy Scouts Association, composed of the Settlements Association—the original organisation of 1912—and the Kiangsu City Association was held formally at the Chinese City Recreation Grounds on Saturday.

The Scouts paraded for this occasion numbered 1,480, representing 29 troops with 45 scoutmasters and assistant scoutmasters. The numbers would have been considerably greater if a certain number of Scouts who were also students had not been otherwise occupied.

The association members met in the Club House at 2 p.m. when the new constitution and rules were passed and officers elected.

Following this, the parade was fallen in and the National Flag saluted, the massed buglers sounding the general salute.

The Parade was inspected by the chairman, members of the Scout Council and the Commissioner, Mr. Fawn Yau who was highly complimented on the result of his labors. Warrants were issued to each troop as a recognised body of the association, and to the several officers of all ranks.

In the evening a lantern procession was held in the Recreation Grounds—where, certain troops had encamped on Friday, having come from far away places such as Sungkiang and Minghong—in further commemoration of an eventful period of the history of Scouting in China. The day was brought to a close with a big campfire.

The lanterns used by the Scouts were made by themselves and showed considerable originality in design and were made in competition.

The lantern procession and campfire were purely scout exhibitions and in connection with the commemoration of an epoch in the history of the movement.

A point has now been reached—after eight years trial—which shows the appreciation and value of the Scout scheme invented by General Sir R. Baden-Powell by China and it is firmly established in China. The Scout Movement is non-political and non-denominational.

The President and Vice Presidents and Members of the Scout Council are as follows:

President: Mr. Y. C. Tong; Vice Presidents: M. Y. Chung, Shen Pao-chang, Ede Lan-ching, E. C. Pearce, Zien Zung-tsai, Yih Zui-foong, Mao Tsi-kyi, Tsang Yih-tsai, Rev. F. L. Hawks-Pott and Sir Everard Fraser.

THE SCOUT COUNCIL

Chairman: Dr. Y. Y. Tsu; Vice Chairmen: Messrs. J. C. Clarke and Kya Kyi-jung; Members: Messrs. T. H. Lee, Fawn Yau, S. Fitz Roy Lloyd, K. F. Chang, T. K. M. Siao, G. S. F. Kemp, Z. T. Tsu, G. King, J. R. Morton.

Secretaries: Messrs. P. K. Chu and Phan Jung-ming.

Treasurer: Mr. S. C. Chu.

EXECUTIVE OFFICERS

Commissioner: Mr. Fawn Yau; Assist. Commissioner: Mr. S. Fitz Roy Lloyd and Mr. A. A. H. Leslie.

District Scoutmasters: Messrs. Y. T. Wang (Western District); Z. L. Sung, (Eastern District); King Jen-ling, (Northern District); C. L. Tai, (Southern District) and D. Y. Shen, (Central District).

32 Troop Scoutmasters.

25 Troop Assistant Scoutmasters and 1,800 Scouts.

The temporary headquarters are at 51 Bubbling Well Road.

Romeo And Juliet

The Russian Literature and Art Society of Shanghai gave its second performance on Sunday evening at the Apollo Theater to a crowded house which thoroughly enjoyed the evening program.

The play was "Romeo and Juliet" with Mr. R. Grey, baritone, as the king. Other leading players were Mrs. Polyanskaya as Juliet, Mrs. Barzeva as Eglantine, Mr. Espagnoly as Romeo, Mr. Lebedev as Leontin and Mr. Selivanoff as the colonel.

Madame Belikovitch, who is familiar to local playgoers, again delighted the audience last night with her interpretations of Egyptian and other classic dances. Mr. Grey was also in splendid voice. Madame Polyanskaya, as Juliet, had probably the most arduous part, and she performed it very creditably. In his role of comedian, Mr. Lebedev was in his usual good form.

In the second act a variety card was given, which included a ballet and dancing songs. In the latter Mr. Volin's deep baritone voice was heard to advantage, as also Mr. Tuyevski's tenor voice. Madame Volin, who has a high coloratura soprano voice also rendered a song. Madame Polyanskaya and Mr. Grey sang "There's a Girl in Havana," translated into Russian.

The "Count of Luxemburg" will be the next presentation.

Chinese Institute Is Opened In Paris

(Reuter's Service)

Paris, April 13.—An interesting ceremony took place at the Sorbonne University this afternoon when, under the presidency of the Minister of Public Instruction, the Institut des Hautes Etudes Chinoises, founded through the initiative of the Paris and Peking Governments, was officially opened by M. Painleve.

The Chinese Minister made a speech and colored slides giving views of China were shown. The Institute has received the magnificent gift of 100,000 manuscripts from the Chinese Government.

Mixed Court Notes

The case of Lee Oo-zaung, charged with the murder of a girl, Oo-Zung-sz, at 561 Medhurst Road, was called before American Assessor Tenney and Magistrate Kwan in the Mixed Court yesterday and continued for one week. The defendant's wife is being held as a material witness.

Two Chinese who were said to have acted suspiciously while shopping on Nanking Road were sentenced to three years imprisonment and re-expulsion yesterday by British Assessor Grant Jones and Magistrate Kwan when the case was called in the Mixed Court. One of the men had a record of eight previous convictions and the other had been to prison nine times.

Nine charges of burglary were made against two Chinese who appeared before British Assessor Blackburn and Magistrate Li yesterday. Three years and expulsion was the penalty imposed.

A Chinese involved in the circulation of 47,000 rubles in counterfeit Russian notes was sentenced to six months in the Reformatory yesterday by the Mixed Court. A receiver of the bogus notes was given the same sentence. Two alleged accomplices were dismissed.

Mexico Would Move Troops Through U.S. To Suppress Rebels

(Reuter's Service)

New York, April 16.—Mexico has asked for permission to move her troops through American territory, to suppress the Sonora rebels.

Judgment Ends Four Years Case

An important judgment has been delivered at the Mixed Court in litigation arising from the disposal, by the Third Class Pawnshops Guild, of 46 packages of clothing which were sold by the organisation for the benefit of 17 creditors of the original owner. The case has been fought in court for over four years and many lawyers were engaged in numerous cases resulting from the action.

After many hearings British Assessor Blackburn and Magistrate Li gave judgment and costs for the defendant, Tseu Ah-tschang, who was represented by Attorney J. Em. Lemiere. The plaintiff was Tseu Min-san, who was represented by Mr. E. B. Rose of Messrs. Jernigan, Fessenden and Rose. The decision exonerates the guild.

J. T. Wright Named American Vice Consal

Mr. John T. Wright of the American Consular staff has been appointed to the post of vice consul and has assumed his new duties in the shipping office of the consulate. Before he entered the consular service here Mr. Wright for an extended period held a civilian post with the Asiatic fleet, having been attached to several commanders-in-chief of the fleet. He is a native of Collin County, Texas.

SHIPBUILDING IN UNITED KINGDOM IS ON INCREASE

(Reuter's Service)

London, April 16.—Lloyd's Register shipbuilding returns for the March quarter show that 3,394,000 tons of merchantmen were building in the United Kingdom on March 31, an increase of 400,000 tons as compared with December, 1919, and of 1,140,000 as compared with the figures twelve months ago. Seven hundred and eight thousand tons were commenced during the quarter, including 62 vessels of 10,000 tons and upwards. The output for the quarter had slightly decreased as compared with the previous quarter. Merchant tonnage being built abroad amounted to 4,547,000 tons, a decrease of 320,000 tons as compared with the quarter ending December 31, owing to the decrease of 392,000 tons in the tonnage being built in the United States. The total tonnage of the world amounted to 7,941,000 tons, an increase of 81,000 tons as compared with December. The tonnage, building in the United Kingdom, has increased by 1,500,000 tons and that abroad by 4,100,000 as compared with 1914.

Agony Of Russians Exceeds That Of Any Other Race In Europe

without even a grimace of disgust. Traveling on the people's business a Soviet car—there are no others—is supposed to go as fast as possible.

I have mentioned the unwashed state of windows and the houses' need of paint. These deficiencies, together with the shabbiness of the people, contribute to the general dreariness of the streets, which incidentally look more crowded than they really are, because folk mostly walk in the roadway because it is kicked up by autos and horses' hoods and is less slippery than the ice-coated sidewalks.

The only well dressed beings are the soldiers, whose overcoats and caps are as "smart" as those of any other army. The women are mostly enveloped in heavy fur coats, and wear fur or woollen hats and thick felt or leather knee boots like the men. Rarely does one glimpse a skirt cut to a fashionable Parisian length, or rather, shortness. High heeled shoes are almost as unusual a sight as silk stockings, and the latter are practically non-existent.

When we reached Moscow the street cars were still running more or less normally. Successive falls of heavy snow, however, buried rails a foot deep beneath a glacier-like surface. In February only a few lines were operating for transport of food and other supplies and none for passengers. The hardship this imposed upon men and women whose homes were far from their work may be imagined. Nobody but speculators and specialists could afford sleighs, so practically everybody hiked in some cases two and three hours daily.

MOVIES DO GOOD BUSINESS

A surprising number of shops were open, considering the tales that have been told about all commerce having been wiped out. Most of them were Soviet stores, to patronise which a prospective purchaser must have a card or special order. Some of these establishments make a brave display with attractively decorated show windows and well arranged interiors.

The private shops are all of the smaller variety, selling such wares as drugs, groceries, leather goods, millinery, perfumery, books, objects d'art and knick-knacks. At night all save the principal squares and thoroughfares are unlighted, but nevertheless they are thronged with pedestrians until after midnight. Indeed, between 11 and 12 they are more crowded than at most hours of the day, because of home going theatergoers.

There are far more theaters open and playing to full houres than there were in peace times. Doubtless the very strain of conditions under which they live drives Moscovites to seek temporary forgetfulness in the playhouses, as humanity always does in a stressful period. Of the extraordinarily high level attained by the drama during the revolution I shall have something to say later on.

There are motion picture shows too, all Sovietski (nationalised) like the theaters and producing some mighty good films; grand opera ballets, concerts, both vocal and symphonic, and even a dance hall or two.

FIRST JEW ENCOUNTERED

From the station we repaired, as I have said, direct to the Foreign Office, which occupies a wing of the former Hotel Metropole, now the Second Soviet House, on the Theater Square beneath the Kremlin. We were welcomed in the most cordial fashion by a little Jewish functionary named Kantorovitch, who spoke all languages and was destined to be our principal guide, philosopher and friend.

He was the secretary of Karahan, Chicherin's chief assistant in the administration of foreign affairs, and incidentally the first Jew we had encountered among the numerous Soviet officials with whom we had come in contact. Observing that we must be too fatigued from our long journey to want to talk business right away, Kantorovitch forthwith handed us a billeting order, supplied us with an escort to our domicile, and told us to have supper and a good night's rest. We promptly hied us thither, to the tune of another 2,000 rubles.

The house in which we were lodged was one of two controlled by the Foreign Office, the address being No. 10 Maly Haritonevski, a quiet residential street in the eastern quarter of the city. It was a magnificent mansion, practically a palace, "expropriated" from one of Moscow's merchant princes. Kubes and I shared a huge room adjoining a gorgeous bathroom and fitted with electric lights, delightful furniture and every other comfort—except heat.

NO HEAT IN MOSCOW HOUSES

During the first three weeks we dwelt there that house was heated only one day a week. The rest of the time the temperature was about one degree higher than outside, or about ten degrees Fahrenheit. I wore two suits of heavy underwear, two pairs of woollen socks, two sweaters, an army shirt, a heavy suit of clothing, thick boots, a fur overcoat, fur gloves, woollen muffler and a cap that covered my ears. Indoors the only thing I removed was the muffler and cap.

Our house was conducted by a small woman with bobbed hair and a suspicious air, who was referred to as "the commandant." She had two servants, a babooshka who cooked, and a younger maid of all work to look after her dozen boarders. This pair, receiving the lowest Soviet wage of 1,200 rubles a month—out of which they had to buy food—toiled as no servants I have ever seen in Europe or America would have done. They were on the job at 8 a.m. and constantly at it until 11 at night, nor did they ever, as far as I could see, get a day off. Nevertheless both were always good humored and obliging.

Our first conflict with "the commandant" arose over the very vital question of a hot bath recommended to us by Kantorovitch. She protested that there was not enough wood to heat the boiler and consequently hot water for bathing purposes was "niet," meaning not.

A BATH BY PERMIT

Besides, she added, 'I must have an order signed by Lenin to give you a bath." This intelligence decided us to do without a bath, necessary though it was. Next day, however, Kantorovitch got an order bearing not Lenin's but Karahan's signature, and we indulged in some very satisfactory ablutions.

The dinner provided for us on the evening of our arrival was typical of the one square meal we were thenceforward to receive daily. It consisted of cabbage soup, in which chemical analysis could have discovered a trace of meat, plain boiled cabbage as second course, a glass of tea with one spoonful of sugar, and a couple of slices of black bread interlarded with straws and other refuse. Sometimes in lieu of cabbage we had mashed potatoes, or buttener still, kasha, a mushlike white cereal that would be appetising with butter, cream and sugar, but is barely palatable without.

For breakfast we had a glass of tea and black bread, for supper another helping of the second course of dinner, whatever that might have been, and tea and bread. Toward the end of our stay, because we had both been ill and were noticeably weak, we were put on "heavy workers' ration," which meant that we got a thimble of butter at breakfast and occasionally a bit of meat in the inevitable cabbage soup. Above is a full and faithful record of all the food we drew from Soviet sources at the Maly Haritonevski house.

And being foreigners, and therefore objects of Russian hospitality, we were living on the fat of the land. Only the Red soldiers and possibly the People's Commissaries Kremlin fared better than we.

STRANGE TABLE COMPANIONS

We dined with our fellow lodgers in a vast, sombre hall at a mahogany table, laid with superb coroneted silver, beautiful porcelain and the finest linen. It was a strange company—three races and nine nationalities were represented. There was an anti-Korean Socialist delegate, an Afghan soldier, a Chinese and Korean Socialist delegate, an Armenian, a Siberian Russian, a Ukrainian, a Finn (our interpreter) and our American selves. A stenographic report of our conversations would make quaint reading. We were alike in one respect—we all ate our soup quickly and noisily—"a regular jazz band," Kubes called it.

U.S. Chamber Of Commerce Is Organised In Changsha

Increasing Number Of American Firms In The Port And Growing Importance Of Trade Lead To New Institution

(China Press Correspondence)

Changsha, April 12.—During the past week, representatives of the American business firms in Changsha organised The Changsha American Chamber of Commerce with the following list of officers:

President, Mr. F. G. Prescott, Andersen Meyer Co,, Ltd.; Secretary, Mr. H. S. Harmon, Standard Oil Co. of N. Y.; Executive Committee, Mr. M. F. Perkins, American Consul; Mr. J. E. de Ballard, Asia Banking Corporation; Mr. F. G. Prescott, Andersen Meyer Co. Ltd.; Mr. H. S. Harmon, Standard Oil Co. of N. Y.

The organisation of an American Chamber of Commerce in Changsha is the result of the increasing number of American firms in this port and the growing importance of their business operations.

The pioneer American firm to enter Changsha was the Standard Oil Co. of N. Y. The head office for the province of Hunan is located here, and a short distance below the city the company has built extensive warehouses, storage tanks, and a can manufacturing and filling plant which serves the whole province. Andersen, Meyer and Co., Ltd., was the second American firm to open offices in Changsha. The company is engaged in a general importing, exporting and engineering business, and their foreign staff is now the largest of any American or British firm in the city. Since last fall the Asia Banking Corporation, with two Americans on its staff, has provided modern banking facilities here. It is believed that the Robert Dollar Co. will also open an office in Changsha soon.

The American population of Changsha now outnumbers that of all other foreigners except Japanese. Since 1915 there has been an American Consulate here to care for the interests of American citizens. The American flags flying from the roofs of the Asia Banking Corporation, the American Consulate, and the Standard Oil Co., which are located on the Bund within a short distance of each other, are conspicuous as one approaches the city by boat, and are indicative of the growth of American business interests in this city and province.

AVIATOR IN GALE FLEW BACKWARD

Schroeder Describes His Record Flight And Dizzy Dive —Could See Four States

TRIES FOR WORLD ROOF

Thinks He Can Rise 48,000 Feet And Will Use Glass Cage In Effort

New York, March 12.—How he encountered such strong headwinds in the upper air regions on his record-breaking altitude flight that his airplane literally traveled backward 120 miles an hour, although he was supposed to be flying forward 100 miles an hour, was described here yesterday by Major Rudolph Schroeder. Major Schroeder, who ascended 36,020 feet at Dayton, Ohio, on Feb. 27 recovering from the effects of a five-mile drop when his supply of oxygen was exhausted.

"I am not actually engaged in altitude flying for the sake of breaking records," said Major Schroeder in an interview at the National Aircraft Show. "As test pilot at McCook Field, it is my duty to explore the altitudes for scientific data regarding trade winds that scientists have long believed existed miles above the earth.

"I succeeded in locating one series of trade winds at a height of 30,000 feet. These winds blow always from west to east at that height. They attain great rates of speed, ranging from 100 to 300 miles an hour. At the peak of my climb, where I hung with slightly upward progress for fifteen minutes, I found the winds blew toward the east at the rate of 220 miles an hour.

"I had started thirty miles west of Dayton, my machine having a speed of 120 miles per hour, and as I steered westward I was literally traveling backward 120 miles an hour.

"I find that a man can breathe without artificial means up to an altitude of 18,000 feet. After that emergency oxygen must be employed.

67 DEGREES BELOW

"It would require too long in the telling to describe just what I found up there in the matter of trade winds and just what my sensation was when I commenced to fall. As to how I managed to climb that high, that is a part of the official record I am compiling.

"This much I can say: The temperature at the peak of the climb was 67 degrees below zero Fahrenheit. The center section of my machine was coated an inch thick with ice. The exhaust from the motor sprayed fumes of carbon monoxide over me and I was breathing this continually along with the oxygen. I had set out with three hours' supply of oxygen and four hours' fuel supply. I have not been able to figure out exactly just what the roof of the world really is I think it possible to go much higher than 45,000 feet, which scientists believe is the ultimate ceiling of the world. But I believe it to be a question of fuel supply.

"I was getting along rapidly. I knew by reading my instruments that I had broken the record, that I was flying higher than any man had ever flown before. I had an hour and one half supply of fuel left and was quite elated. I was wondering just how far I could climb in that time, when I found my reserve tank of oxygen emptied.

"I had discarded the original tank some minutes before, because it did not function properly and when I exhausted my reserve, turned back to it. It would not work. I had torn off my heavy goggles because the motor exhaust was crystallising on them and interfered with my vision. I turned toward the instruments—then everything went blank. I fell into flat nose live.

GAS TANK COLLAPSES

"While I was falling my gasoline tank collapsed. You see I was working a pressure of three pounds per square inch up there at the peak. As I dropped down into heavier atmosphere the pressure from outside increased to fourteen pounds per square inch, and the pressure naturally caved in the tank.

"As far as I can remember, part of the fall was in a straight nose dive. The rest was a spinning nose dive. I believe I was really 34,000 feet high when I fell against the switchboard. My motor was on at the time. I was trying to turn off the switch as I nosed the plane, head down. I must have turned the switch off.

"Yes, I actually lost consciousness and my head was out of the machine, hanging over the edge of the cockpit.

"One thing I might mention: It has been said that the temperature varies at certain altitudes. I secured a rise in temperature of 2 degrees at one point in the upward climb."

Major Schroeder said that while he was more than 35,000 feet high he could distinguish plainly in Ohio, Indiana, Kentucky and West Virginia. Dayton below him was easily recognisable, the race track of the city standing out particularly clearly, he said.

After his month's furlough is up, Major Schroeder will try to better his world's record, using this time a glass cage to protect himself and the machine. A three-hour supply of oxygen will be carried and as on his previous trips, he will fly alone.

WHEN FEVERISH OR IN PAIN

There Is Prompt Help And Comfort For Little Ones In Baby's Own Tablets

The health of babies and young children is subject to rapid changes, and careful mothers should not delay at the first sign of feverishness with chills or flushes. There is warning in a hot dry skin, thirst, quick breathing and a plaintive cry; at such a time a prompt dose of Baby's Own Tablets, the children's friend, will often avert a serious illness.

Mrs. M. D. Matheson, of 42 Dufresne Street, Montreal, says:—"My little boy, 5 years old, was threatened with fever. I gave him Baby's Own Tablets at night and in the morning he was better. I shall always use Baby's Own Tablets for my little ones, and I find they take them without trouble."

Baby's Own Tablets, the Canadian children's remedy are guaranteed to be equally helpful and harmless to the youngest infant as to the child of 6 years or more. They are recommended for simple fever, colds, indigestion, constipation, colic, diarrhoea, disturbed sleep, eczema, teething troubles and worms. Obtainable from druggists, also post free at 60 cents the vial, from Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., 96 Szechuen Road, Shanghai.

CASTORIA

for Infants and Children.

The Effects of Opiates.

THAT INFANTS are peculiarly susceptible to opium and its various preparations, all of which are narcotic, is well known. Even in the smallest doses, if continued, these opiates cause changes in the functions and growth of the cells, which are likely to become permanent, causing imbecility, mental perversion, a craving for alcohol or narcotics in later life. Nervous diseases, such as intractable nervous dyspepsia and lack of staying power, are a result of dosing with opiates or narcotics to keep children quiet in their infancy. The rule among physicians is that children should never receive opiates in the smallest doses for more than a day at a time, and only then if unavoidable.

The administration of Anodynes, Drops, Cordials, Soothing Syrups and other narcotics to children by any but a physician cannot be too strongly decried, and the druggist should not be a party to it. Children who are ill need the attention of a physician, and it is nothing less than a crime to dose them wilfully with narcotics. Castoria contains no narcotics if it bears the signature of Chas. H. Fletcher.

The signature of Chas. H. Fletcher guarantees genuine Castoria

Physicians Recommend Castoria.

"Your preparation known as Castoria I have used for years in children's complaints and I have found nothing better."
JOHN J. LEFFA, M. D., Cleveland, Ohio.

"I have prescribed your Castoria in many cases and have always found it an efficient and speedy remedy."
A. F. FESLER, M. D., St. Louis, Mo.

"For several years I recommended your Castoria and shall always continue to do so, as it has invariably produced beneficial results."
EDWIN F. PARDEE, M. D., New York City.

"I have used your Castoria in my own household with good results, and have advised several patients to use it for its mild, laxative effect and freedom from harm."
EDWARD PARRISH, M. D., Brooklyn, N. Y.

"Your Castoria is a meritorious household remedy. It is purely vegetable and acts as a mild cathartic. Above all, it does no harm, which is more than can be said of the great majority of children's remedies."
VICTOR H. COFFMAN, M. D., Omaha, Neb.

"Your Castoria holds the esteem of the medical profession in a manner held by no other proprietary preparation. It is a sure and reliable medicine for infants and children. In fact it is the universal household remedy for infantile ailments."

CANADA EMBARGO AIMED AT ENGLAND

Dominion Said To Have Feared Great Dumping Of Stocks And Bonds

Montreal, Feb. 26.—Dumping on the Canadian market of English-owned Dominion securities valued at $1,250,000,000 has been prevented by the agreement which Canada brokers and bond houses have made with the Government not to bring any more securities from England, it was estimated today. Gilt-edge Dominion securities bought in London were sold here so cheaply that they yielded 6.10 percent, but the sellers made heavy profits owing to the abnormal exchange. The embargo is regarded as necessary to stabilise the price of victory loans.

In return for their acquiescence in the embargo Canadian financial interests have asked that the Dominion prohibit the importation of non-essential commodities from the United States.

The co-operation of banks in the embargo was assured the Government today by C. A. Bogert, President of the Canadian Bankers' Association. "Bankers," he said, "will take every legitimate means to accomplish the end in view."

LONDON'S VIEW

London, Feb. 26.—Commenting on the action of the Canadian Government in entering into an agreement with brokers and bond houses not to bring any more Dominion securities into Canada from England, in order to prevent "dumping" of English-owned Canadian securities on the market for the purpose of taking profits through the abnormal rate of exchange, The Daily Telegraph says:

"There is no official prohibition, although it amounts to such in effect. British holders of these securities who find the value of their stocks suffering considerably in consequence may feel aggrieved, but purchases have been so extensive that it is doubtful whether any considerable amount is left on this side. The necessity for this step is an indication that stringent monetary considerations are not peculiar to this country. There is every evidence in the United States and Canada that money is almost tighter there than here."

The Daily Express says that the news of the embargo came as a bombshell to London arbitrage dealers and adds that great resentment at the action of the Canadian Government is expressed here. The newspaper anticipates that the home Government will make strong representations to Canada on the subject.

Llewellyn And Co. Meeting

The 31st annual general meeting of Messrs. J. Llewellyn and Company, Ltd., was held at the office of Messrs. A. R. Burkill and Sons, yesterday. Dr. E. L. Marsh presided and was supported by Messrs. C. R. Slowe and A. W. Burkill, directors and Mr. F. H. Lowe, acting secretary.

The chairman spoke as follows:

"Gentlemen.—With your permission I will follow the usual custom and take the report and accounts as read. Before proceeding to the usual business I must refer to the great loss which the board has sustained since the last annual meeting in the death of our late chairman, Mr. C. W. Wrightson. We have also lost the services of Mr. G. Wingrove who recently left Shanghai to enjoy a well-deserved retirement.

"After making provision for the usual depreciation, there is a profit on working account for the year, of $19,408.75 and after deducting $11,871.41 brought forward from last year, at debit of profit and loss account, we have a net profit of $7,537.34. We regret that no dividend can be paid, but we are still saddled with some of the drugs imported for Russian account. These stand in our stocks at $13,320 and it is very necessary that we make a reserve against the loss that will come when this account is finally liquidated.

"The year's working may be considered as satisfactory and our business is now in a sound state. Our overdraft has come down from $54,505.74 to $18,846.50, and I sincerely hope that our troubles are over and that next year we will be in a position to resume the payment of dividends.

"The result of the year's working of the Aerated Water Factory is also very satisfactory, an increase of 25 percent compared with the previous year. This increase is being maintained.

"Our general manager, Mr. Buckley, goes home shortly on a very well earned holiday, and I would like to take this opportunity of expressing our appreciation of the great energy, interest and ability shown by Mr. Buckley, ably assisted by Mrs. Buckley during the trying time we have gone through.

"We are glad to welcome back Mr. Whyte who left us to join His Majesty's forces in 1915. Further additions have been made to the staff and the strain has been considerably relieved.

"It is the policy of the company to employ the service only of highly qualified and trained compounders and dispensers, and in conformity with the policy, 90 percent of our drugs are of the best English manufactures, and the remaining 10 percent come from the highest classed foreign manufacturing chemists.

"I have nothing further to add but will be pleased to answer any questions shareholders may wish to ask."

No questions being asked the meeting adopted resolutions confirming the appointment of Mr. C. R. Slowe as a director, re-electing Mr. A. W. Burkil as a director and re-appointing Messrs. Lowe, Bingham and Matthews as the company's auditors at an annual fee of Tls. 200.

Sua Manggis Company Meeting

At the tenth annual general meeting of the Sua Manggis Rubber Co. held at the offices of the general managers, Messrs. Scott, Harding and Co. No. 6, Peking Road, a dividend of 5 percent was declared, and Mr. A. R. Duncan, who had resigned the directorship last year owing to his absence from Shanghai, was re-elected a director.

Mr. L. J. Cubitt presided, and the other directors present were Messrs. E. S. Kadoorie and J. H. Teesdale. The number of shares represented was 8,120.

The secretary having read the notice convening the meeting and the auditor's report, the chairman said:

"I am glad to be able to put before you rather better results than at this time last year due to an improvement in the average net return on rubber to the extent of 17 cents per lb. The improved prices however which ruled during the latter part of 1919 were largely discounted by the increasingly adverse exchange. The net result is that we have a disposable balance to deal with today of Tls. 16,746.47 which includes Tls. 1,741.07 brought forward from 1918. Your directors recommend that Tls. 13,500 be distributed in a 5 percent dividend. Tls. 2,133.76 be transferred to general reserve bringing that fund up to Tls. 25,000 and the balance of Tls. 1,112.71 be carried forward to the new account. The census which last year I stated was being taken was completed in June and revealed the existence of a larger number of trees than had previously been assumed. The census total was 79,876. trees but the average number of trees in tapping throughout the year only averaged 60,061.

YIELD IS IMPROVED

"The policy of thinning out has been continued and during the year trees to the number of 5,989 were removed. The yield per acre shows an improvement but you will notice that the yield per tree is given as less than in 1918. As no trees have been brought into tapping it is obvious that the comparison is thrown out by the additional number of trees revealed by the census, there being more trees to the acre than previously supposed.

"The output for the year fell short of the estimate by only 2,775 lbs. During the year 46 acres in the tapping area in Fields 13, 15 and 16 remained out of tapping owing to poor bark renewal and there are a number of individual trees of Field 15 equivalent to another 10 acres still untappable. These areas have been rested and in Field 13, 8 acres were especially cultivated as an experiment which if successful will be continued. Unfortunately the results were disappointing. Under the advice of the visiting agents these 8 acres are to be cut out and replanted as a final test of the fertility of the soil and the future of the remaining untappable areas will depend upon the result.

"The cost of production f.o.b. was slightly less than 1918 but the all-in-cost works out at 6 cents or 1¾d per lb. more, due principally to the amount of Shanghai charges and increased depreciation being converted at a lower rate of exchange.

"During the current year it is estimated that the f.o.b. cost will be reduced by 1d per lb. on an output of 235,000 lb. excluding war tax which is no longer imposed.

"A good deal of thinning out has still to be done and it is expected that during the process all the trees affected with brown bast will be cut out.

SPEAKS OF ACCOUNTS

"Now a word about the accounts. The development account and working account call for no comment. Profit and loss account also contains no special feature but I would in passing draw attention to the amount of Tls. 6,679.04 written off for depreciation as against Tls. 4,497.72 the previous year.

"As mentioned in the report the machinery for a new factory may arrive at any time now and when the factory is built and equipped it will mean the practical elimination of the existing factory and equipment from our assets. It has therefore been thought advisable to write off these latter altogether. The sum of Tls. 5,000 standing against buildings in the balance sheet represents less than the dollar value of the remaining buildings which are all in good order and similarly Tls. 500 under the heading of tools and machinery is well within the value of new purchases.

"I have to apologise for an undetected error under the heading "office furniture account, Shanghai." It should read "expended previously Tls. 200, written off previously Tls. 100.

"The value of our investments is put in at cost as usual with a note of the market value on Dec. 31 calculated at exchanged 30. At current rate today the value is 20 percent more and the same applies to the items of cash at Singapore and Seremban. The sum of $25,000 invested in War Loans was set aside for the cost of the new factory but at the high prices now ruling for machinery and buildings this sum will need to be augmented.

"Since closing the accounts the price of first latex has fallen about 20 percent but our stock rubber was sold before the price had broken and the value given in the balance sheet is a safe one. The present decline in market value of the raw article is offset by the rise in the tael value of the Straits dollar.

No questions were asked, and the following resolutions were put forward and adopted unanimously:

That the report and accounts to December 31, 1919, as printed and circulated be accepted and passed. Proposed by Mr. L. J. Cubitt, and seconded by Mr. J. H. Teesdale.

That a dividend at the rate of 5 percent equal to 25 tael cents per share on the issued capital of the company be paid on April 20, to shareholders on the register on that date. Proposed by Mr. L. J. Cubitt, seconded by Mr. E. S. Kadoorie.

That Mr. A. R. Duncan be elected a director of the company. Proposed by Mr. L. J. Cubitt, seconded by Mr. J. H. Teesdale.

That Messrs. Mortimer, Reid and Slee be re-elected auditors to the company for the current financial year at a fee of Shanghai taels 150. Proposed by Mr. Foo Ching, and seconded by Mr. E. L. Canning.

Piece Goods And Yarn

Messrs. Ilbert and Co. write as follows in their report dated April 16:

PIECE GOODS

Trade in all sections continues dull, with little or no demand for either cloth or yarn.

Clearances have been less brisk than might have been expected in view of the continued scarcity of stocks in the interior, but prices on the whole remain fairly steady, except in the case of cotton yarn which has been adversely affected by the more or less serious position which has arisen in Japan. The money market there appears to be undergoing the inevitable reaction after a long period of inflation, and yarn prices in Osaka have slumped sharply enough to create speculative weakness here. A further unsettling feature is the rapid downward movement in exchange owing to the decline in silver and a heavy demand for telegraphic transfers with an almost total absence of demand for Chinese produce from Europe or America.

Grey Shirtings, 8¼ lbs.—We have the following sales to record: Two Black Joss at Tls. 5.75, Gold Globe at Tls. 5.05, Gold Elephant at Tls. 4.95, Two Stags at Tls. 4.85, Camel at Tls. Tls. 4.75. Auction market barely steady.

7 lbs.—Sales are reported in: Blue Bell at Tls. 3.80, Blue Soldier at Tls. 3.75, and Man and Horse at Tls. 3.60. No material change in auction prices.

9-11 lbs.—We hear of business in 10 lbs. as follows: Pigs head at Tls. 8.25 and Boys and Two Peaches at Tls. 7.00. Auction market steady.

White Shirtings.—Our market has ruled quiet with prices at auction barely steady owing to the absence of any strong demand. The following sales have been brought to our notice: Large Red Dog at Tls. 12.30, Two Dragons No. 600 at Tls. 11.00, Five Boys at Tls. 11.00, Five Gold Bats at Tls. 10.50, Mountain Flower No. 1 at Tls. 9.75, Cash at Tls. 9.30, Peacock at Tls. 9.10, Good Luck at Tls. 8.95.

American Drills.—We have no private sales to record. Market steady.

Jeans.—Our market remains steady at last week's prices. We have one sale to record in 40 yards Red Cock at Tls. 8.50 and 30 yds. Red Cock at Tls. 6.50.

Dyed and Fancy Cottons.—Market quiet with auction prices easier all round.

Cotton.—A very dull tone overshadows our market, small sales have been made during the week, quotations however are practically unchanged and may be given as follows. Tungchow at Tls. 33.00 to Tls. 32.50, Taichong at Tls. 30.00 to Tls. 29.50, Steam Ginned at Tls. 28.00 to Tls. 27.50 and Ordinary Shanghai at Tls. 28.00 to Tls. 27.50. Ordinary Hankow Grades are quoted at Tls. 27.75 to Tls. 27.25 and Shensi No. 1 at Tls. 33.00 to Tls. 32.75.

Liverpool quotations are cabled through Reuter's Agency as follows: Good Middling American 28.03d. for spot, 25.07d. for July and 23.46d. for October. Egyptian Sakellaridis is quoted at 36.00d. and M. G. Bengals at 16.00d. per lb.

Local Yarn. Our market is very quiet and dull with a weakening tendency. We hear of no new business.

The Adriatic Problem

WE begin publication today of the full correspondence between the United States and the Allies dealing with the Adriatic mess. It will be remembered that these notes finally led to the announcement by President Wilson that unless the matter was settled somewhat along the lines advocated by the United States, to which the Allies earlier had assented, the President would feel called upon to withdraw the Peace Treaty and the Treaty for the Defense of France from the Senate.

Since this last note was sent, the action with regard to the Peace Treaty has become unnecessary for the reason that the Senate itself has sent the treaty back to the President unapproved. The treaty covering the military alliance for the defense of France has not been acted upon, but its importance in view of the recent course of events in the Ruhr district of Germany cannot be exaggerated.

The Nation, (New York, March 6) discussing these notes, says:

"The American notes of February 10 and February 24 on the Adriatic question, the texts of which have now been published, deserve a careful reading. Mr. Lansing's reply of February 10 to the proposals of Great Britain and France, as set forth in their memoranda of January 14 and January 23, is in substance a forcible and reasoned rejoinder. Wholly aside from the fact that the United States, which was a party to the Adriatic agreement of December 9, was not consulted in the framing of the subsequent agreement of radically different tenor, the United States rejects altogether, upon the broad ground of its merits, an arrangement which opens the way to a control by Italy of the foreign relations of Fiume, establishes Italy in dominating military positions close to the railway which runs northward from Fiume, and partitions the Albanian people, against their vehement protests, among three different alien Powers. Such a settlement, Mr. Lansing declares, both in the terms of its provisions and in the methods of its enforcement, constitutes a positive denial of the principles for which America entered the war.

"In a passage which is a stinging rebuke to Italy, the note further states that this Government cannot accept a settlement the terms of which have been admitted to be unwise and unjust, but which it is proposed to grant to Italy in view of her persistent refusal to accept any wise and just solution. If the policy which the Allies have now adopted is to prevail, Mr. Wilson must take under serious consideration the withdrawal from the Senate of the peace treaty and the agreement with France, and leave the terms of the European settlement to be independently established and enforced by the associated Governments. The note of February 24, which is signed by Mr. Polk, while less emphatic in tone and apparently leaving open a door to further negotiation, shows no abandonment of the position taken in the note of February 10. . . .

"Mr. Wilson, in whose name, of course, the notes are written, objects to the disregard of ethnographic considerations in the proposed settlement of the Adriatic difficulties. When the Allies, in their memorandum of February 17, cite the inclusion of 3,000,000 Germans in Czecho-Slovakia and 3,000,000 Ruthenians in Poland as examples of necessary modifications of ethnographic frontiers, he can only reply that there were cases when for sufficient geographic and economic reasons slight deflections of the ethnographical frontier were sanctioned by the Conference.

"The arguments against the Treaty of London are the dissolution of Austria-Hungary, the secret character of the treaty, and its opposition to the principles unanimously accepted as the basis for making peace. Did not the Peace Conference, in which the United States was represented, dissolve Austria-Hungary on the merest shadow of principle? Was not the Treaty of Versailles hatched in secret? Were any principles unanimously accepted as a basis of peace? 'It has never been the policy of either this Government or its associates to invoke the League of Nations as a guarantee that a bad settlement shall not become worse.' True; yet it is precisely this argument that is being employed in this country, in Congress and out, in support of a speedy ratification of the treaty. It certainly seems like going to extremes for Mr. Wilson, after signing the Treaty of Versailles with all its enormities and reading a lecture to the Allies for violating its 'principles,' to threaten a withdrawal of the treaty from the Senate because in another controversy, to which the Treaty of Versailles does not relate, the Powers have gone back on an agreement without consulting him and have proposed a solution which he does not like. One wonders how such a step, if it were actually taken, would fare when it came to be reviewed by the League of Nations."

The New York Times, on the other hand says that there can be little doubt in the mind of unprejudiced readers that President Wilson's position in the affair is morally very strong. The rights and wrongs of the case as it stands are well summed up in a sentence near the end of his note of Feb. 10:

"If substantial agreement on what is just and reasonable is not to determine international issues; if the country possessing the most endurance in pressing its demands, rather than the country armed with a just cause is to gain the support of the Powers; if forcible seizure of coveted areas is to be permitted and condoned, and is to receive ultimate justification by creating a situation so difficult that decision favorable to the aggressor is deemed a practical necessity; if deliberately incited ambition is, under the name of national sentiment, to be rewarded at the expense of the small and the weak; if, in a word, the old order of things which brought so many evils on the world is still to prevail, then the time is not yet come when this Government can enter a concert of Powers the very existence of which must depend upon a new spirit and a new order."

"Deliberately incited ambition under the name of national sentiment" is an exact description of the Italian agitation for the annexation of Fiume, says the Times. But this is not all. The sentence quoted above is followed almost immediately by the warning that if the Anglo-French-American proposal of Dec. 9 is not accepted the Peace Treaty and the defensive agreement with France may have to be withdrawn from the Senate. In form this is not a threat, but merely a statement of what may occur if the President's wishes are not followed. . . .

"This is a matter of detail; the larger question relates to the extent to which America can continue to associate itself with a European settlement some features of which do not accord with the principles affirmed by our Government. Mr. Wilson's latest note, leaves the situation where it was on Dec. 9. Theoretically one may approve his view that when Italy and Jugo-Slavia had failed to agree between themselves they should accept the compromise adopted on that date by England, France and America. The British and French Governments have pointed out that this compromise contains one feature, the buffer State, which is wanted by nobody except the American Government; they lay little emphasis on the practical objection to the proposal, which is that the Italians will not have it. The President suggests no new method for making the Italians like it, and certain of the phrases in his note of Feb. 10, while not so severe as rumors had indicated, are likely to arouse rather than to allay Italian feeling. And it is unfortunate that there is no recognition of the fact that Mr. Nitti is and always has been a moderating influence on a situation which he inherited from the Orlando Ministry.

"The intimation that a settlement by direct negotiation between the Italians and the Jugo-Slavs would be the best way out is undeniably sound, but so far no result has been attained by such conversations, and the President's refusal to approve compensation of either side out of Albanian territory, while entirely just, throws another side of the Adriatic question back to its former status. As it stands, our Government advises the disputants to see what they can do by talking it over; and if that method continues to bring no result it is to be hoped that the Allies can evolve some new proposal embodying the general principles of the December plan, but devoid of the features that made it unacceptable. The fundamental principles at issue the President has stated admirably; but the solution cannot be put off forever, and conditions in both countries are growing more serious. The danger of hostilities is increasing, the longer settlement is delayed."

'Cheer Up! Or, Have You Forgotten?'

By GRANTLAND RICE

There's snow and rain and a roaring wind
That drives in a sudden spurt;
But the walls are thick and floor is dry
And the steam heat doesn't hurt;
And ponder this as you pike along
Where winter's lash is drawn,
That no one slogs through the midnight mud
To die at the front at dawn.

You who have known what the long hike meant
Where the deadly road was marked,
Where an endless rain came out of the night
And the Seventy-seven barked,
What do you care for the winter gale?
Why do you mind the mire
Where no one waits for the last barrage
To start for the blasted wire?

Half-way up to your knees in mud
With a full pack on your back,
Twenty miles in a slogging march
To start with the next attack—
So what if the streets are slush and snow
Where the winter furies spawn,
Where no one drives for the Ourcq or Meuse
To fall in the charge at dawn?

Fiume Notes That Led To Wilson's Ultimatum

Washington, Feb. 26.—The text of the correspondence between Washington and the British and French Premiers, as given out today, follows:

The correspondence begins with the joint British-French-American memorandum of Dec. 9. The text of this document was published in The New York Times of Feb. 22, in a special cable despatch from Paris, with the exception of the last section. This addition to the memorandum as published is given out today and reads as follows:

UNPUBLISHED SECTION

"The United States, British and French Governments desire to recognise the independence of the Albanian State. They consider that the State of Albania will require to the extent indicated in Paragraph 4 of Article XXII. of the covenant of the League of Nations 'the administrative advice assistance' of one of the great powers. For this task Italy, by her geographical situation and economic capacity, is primarily indicated.

"The United States, British and French Governments are anxious therefore to entrust to Italy a mandate over the State of Albania under the conditions implied in the covenant of the League of Nations. They consider that these conditions should form the basis of Italy's acceptance of this mandate and should be in a convention to be concluded between the Italian Government and the Governments of the principal allied and associated powers. The headings of such a convention would be the following:

"(1). Albania is recognised as an independent State within the frontiers indicated in the body of the covering memorandum. Nothing in these stipulations shall, however, prevent the Albanian State from negotiating with the Serb-Croat-Slovene State such regional rectifications as may be in accord with local ethnographic and economic requirements.

"(2). The Serb-Croat-Slovene Government shall have the right to construct and operate railways through northern Albania north of parallel 41, degrees 15, and otherwise to enjoy full privileges of international purport across northern Albania.

"(3). The right to control the development of the Boyana River shall be vested in the Council of the League of Nations, with power to delegate the work to either Italy or the Serb-Croat-Slovene State under proper restrictions. It is assumed for this purpose that Montenegro will form part of the Serb-Croat-Slovene State.

"(4). A commission shall forthwith be established consisting of a representative of the Italian Government, a representative of the League of Nations and a representative of the Albanian State who shall be designated by the principal allied and associated powers for the purpose of elaborating (a) the terms of the mandate to be entrusted to Italy over Albania, and (b) the organisation of the future State of Albania. This commission shall terminate its labors within five months from the signature of this convention and will address a report thereon with the necessary recommendation to the Council of the League of Nations. The final decision as to the terms of the mandate and the organisation shall be made by the council of the League acting by a majority vote.

"(5). The commission foreshadowed in the above paragraph shall base its deliberation not only on the considerations above outlined, but also on the following principles:

"(A) The freedom of conscience and the free and outward exercise of all forms of worship, the complete liberty in education and linguistic matters of all the inhabitants of the State of Albania.

"(B) The organisation in so far as may be compatible with the tradition of the country and the exercise of efficient administration of legislative and administrative bodies representing all sections of the population.

"(C). The prevention of the exploitation of the country or its colonisation in a manner liable to militate against the interests of the native inhabitants, under this heading would be included any recommendations which the commission might make as to improvements in the existing system of land tenure.

"(D) The eventful creation of gendarmerie the senior officers of which may be nationals of the mandatory power. The mandatory power shall have the right for a period of two years from the date of which the mandate is conferred and pending the organisation of the native gendarmerie the request of armed forces in the country. After that period the State of Albania shall be permanently demilitarised and no power shall be allowed to maintain regular forces in the country without the sanction of the Council of League of Nations."

REVISED PROPOSALS

The following is a paraphrase of the text of the British-French revised proposals, as accepted by Premier Nitti and handed to the Jugo-Slav delegation by Premier Clemenceau on Jan. 14.

"The Adriatic question—Revised proposals handed to the Jugo-Slav delegates by M. Clemenceau on the afternoon of Jan. 14, 1920.

"(1) There shall be an independent State, consisting of the Corpus Separatum of Fiume. The right of this independent State to choose its own diplomatic representation shall be accorded. The Serb-Croat-Slovene State shall be given the Town of Susak, it being understood that the railways terminating there, together with all facilities for their development and the whole port as well, are to be handed over and to belong to the League of Nations, which will take into consideration the interests of the Serb-Croat-Slovene State, Hungary, Transylvania, as well as the city itself, and will make arrangements accordingly.

(2) The free State (of the previous proposals) shall disappear and the boundary shall be so drawn between Italy and the Serb-Croat-Slovene State as to meet the following requirements:

"(a) To provide along the coast a connection by road within Italian territory. This, however, shall be done in such a manner as to leave within the Serb-Croat-Slovene State the whole of the railway from Fiume northward through Adelsberg. Where the railway from Fiume follows the coast, the boundary line shall lie between the railroad and the corridor joining Fiume with Italy.

"(b) A readjustment of the Wilson line in the region of Senosecchia in order to provide for the protection of Trieste.

"(c) The boundary line to be further drawn as marked by the blue line on the map attached. This will leave in the Serb-Croat-Slovene State purely Jugo-Slav districts.

"3. There shall be an independent State, under the guarantee of the League of Nations, consisting of Zara, within the limits of the municipality. The right of this independent State to choose its own diplomatic representation shall be accorded.

"4. Valona shall be retained by Italy, as provided for in the treaty of London, and, in addition, the mandate over Albania shall be given to Italy. In Northern Albania the boundaries shall be readjusted as shown on the attached map. Those districts of Albania which will thus go to the Serb-Croat-Slovene State will have a special regime as an autonomous province similar to that which the treaty with the Czecho-Slovak Republic provides for its autonomous provinces. The southern boundary of Albania shall be the line which was proposed by the British and French delegations on the Commission of Greek Affairs. This leaves Greece Koritza and Arbyrokastron.

"5. There shall be assigned to Italy the following island groups: Lussin, Lissa and Pelagosa. There shall be placed under the sovereignty of the Serb-Croat-Slovene State the remainder of the islands.

"6. All Adriatic islands shall be demilitarised.

"7. There shall be special provisions permitting Italians in Dalmatia to choose, without leaving the territory, Italian nationality.

"8. Economic enterprises now existing in Dalmatia shall, by an international convention, have their security safeguarded.

LANSING'S INQUIRY OF JAN. 19

The following is the text of the cable sent on Jan. 19 by the Secretary of State, asking the point of view of the British and French Governments in undertaking to dispose of the Adriatic and Russian questions before ascertaining the views of the American Government:

"Washington, Jan. 19, 1919.

"Please take up with Mr. Clemenceau and Mr. Lloyd George the question of the way the Russian and the Italian problems have been handled and ascertain their point of view. The United States is being put in the position of having the matter disposed of before the American point of view can be expressed, as apparently Mr. Clemenceau and Mr. Lloyd George have sought only the views of the Italian and Jugo-Slav Governments before ascertaining the views of the United States Government. Is it the intention of the British and French Governments in the future to dispose of the various questions pending in Europe and to communicate the results to the Government of the United States? There are features in connection with the proposed Fiume settlement which both Mr. Clemenceau and Mr. Lloyd George must realise would not be acceptable to the President.

"As it was pointed out by Mr. Polk before his departure, the Dalmatian and other questions should be taken up through regular diplomatic channels and the fact that you are not charged with full powers could have no bearing on the question. As no American official could be sent to these gatherings that could have the same authority as the Prime Ministers of the three Governments in question, it is manifestly impossible for the United States Government to be represented at the meetings of the Prime Ministers."

"LANSING."

STATEMENT OF THE FRENCH AND BRITISH PRIME MINISTERS OF JAN. 23

The text of the reply of the British and French Prime Ministers to the preceding cable reads as follows:

"Paris.

"His Britanic Majesty's Ambassador presents his compliments to his Excellency the United States Ambassador and has the honor to state that he has been charged by Mr. Lloyd George and M. Clemenceau to hand to Mr. Wallace the inclosed telegram drawn up by Mr. Lloyd George and M. Clemenceau before their departure. In reply to the telegram from Mr. Lansing, which Mr. Wallace handed to Mr. Lloyd George and M. Clemenceau on the 20th inst., Lord Derby would be grateful if the telegram now inclosed could be transmitted to Mr. Lansing at the earliest opportunity."

"The telegram reads as follows:

"'The French and British Prime Ministers have given their careful attention to the memorandum communicated to them by the American Ambassador in regard to the Russian and Italian negotiations. As to the Russian question, they had previously sent a statement of their views for the consideration of the United States Government, inviting their consent and co-operation.

"As regards the Italian question, the absence of the United States has never been regarded by the French and British Governments as more than temporary, and they have never lost sight of the American point of view on this question on the right solution of which the future of the world so largely depends. The French, British and Japanese Governments have never had the intention of making a definite settlement of the questions raised without obtaining the views of the American Government. They therefore took up the Adriatic question at the point at which it was left on the departure of Mr. Polk for Washington. Signor Nitti transmitted certain proposals in modification of the joint memorandum handed to Signor Scialoja by request from the United States, France and Great Britain on December 9, 1919, on the assembly of the conference in Paris a fortnight ago.

"'M. Clemenceau and Mr. Lloyd George immediately resumed negotiations between the Italian Government and the representatives of Jugo-Slavia and finally arrived at what they considered an arrangement which was the best available reconciliation of the Italian and Jugo-Slavs points of view. The details of this settlement are appended. The French and British Governments are glad to think that practically every important point of the joint memorandum of Dec. 9, 1919, remains untouched and has now been indorsed by the Prime Minister of Italy. Only two features undergo alterations, and both these alterations are to the positive advantage of Jugo-Slavia:

"'1.—The free State of Fiume, which would have separated 200,000 Jugo-Slavs from their fatherland, disappears. Three-quarters of these people are at once and forever united with Jugo-Slavia, a source of perpetual intrigue and dispute is done away with, and if in return Jugo-Slavia has to agree to the transfer of territory to Italy including some 18,000 Jugo-Slavs in addition to those already included under the Wilson proposals, the balance is clearly to the benefit of Jugo-Slavia. Fiume becomes an independent States under the guarantee of the League of Nations, and the authority of the League of Nations over the port becomes absolute and immediate in the interests of all concerned.

"'2.—As regards Albania, an attempt has been made to afford satisfaction to the necessary requirements of all parties concerned. The details of the administration of this country by Jugo-Slavia, Italy and Greece have yet to be elaborated, but in working to the end right will not be lost of the feelings and future interests of the Albanian people and every endeavor will be made to carry out the arrangements in full consultation with them. The French and British Governments consider that the above is a fair settlement of a difficult and dangerous question and have informed Italian and Jugo-Slav Governments that in the event of its not being accepted they will be driven to support the enforcement of the Treaty of London, which is satisfactory to nobody.

"'Had a plenipotentiary representing the United States Government been in Paris, M. Clemenceau and Mr. Lloyd George would have cordially welcomed his full co-operation in this negotiation, but in the absence of any one who could speak on behalf of the United States and in view of the vital importance of arriving at the settlement of a question which has inflamed Southeastern Europe for more than a year and which, if it is not promptly composed, may not only impede the recuperation and reconstruction of two countries greatly exhausted by the war, but may lead to war itself, the Prime Ministers of France and Great Britain felt that no other course was open to them but to proceed to dispose as quickly as possible of difficulties between two of their allies in close and continuous consultation with both while they were all in Paris together. In doing this they have not intended to show the slightest discourtesy to the United States Government nor have they wished to conceal their action in any way from the latter. They are indeed sure that the President would not have desired them to make a settlement impossible during the necessarily short stay of the Prime Ministers in Paris by requiring every phase of the negotiations to be communicated to Washington in order to obtain his consent to the proposals when he had not heard the arguments and could not interview the principals concerned. In their judgment the only plan was to proceed with the negotiations as rapidly as possible and to submit the results to the United States Government as soon as definite conclusion had been reached.

The Annual Mistake

By S. E. KISER

Along about this time o' year
We hope again that Spring is near,
Reviving, waking and renewing.
Come tulips now and Easter hats
And eager people hunting flats,
And learning that there's nothing doing;
Men turn too soon to beeveedees
And yield up life's proud ecstasies,
A custom that is old pursuing.

The robin, absent for a term,
Comes back to hunt the early worm—
Unlucky bird! He should have waited.
The young man's fancy lightly turns
To thoughts of love; the maiden spurns
His plea, preferring to be mated
With one who's garnered golden fruits,
And future breach-of-promise suits
Are busy being generated.

The crocus takes a peep around,
Then flattens on the frozen ground,
As if discouraged or in sorrow;
A bond thief here and there is caught
For dipping in and taking what
More careful people earn or borrow;
In scanty clothes the girls appear;
We think today that Spring is here,
And have a change of mind tomorrow.

Some Poems Worth Reading

No. 3—'The Last Leaf,' By Oliver Wendell Holmes

A reader asks that "The Last Leaf" be included in the series of Poems Worth Reading.

If Dr. Holmes had not been a great medical authority he would have been known as a great essayist. If he had not been a great essayist he would have been more than an ordinary poet. The final result was that while he was noted most for his keen wit he was a more than competent workman in all three fields of medicine, prose and verse.

"The Last Leaf," while it was much admired by Poe and a favorite of Lincoln's, who said it contained the greatest pathos of any poem in the English language, was not the best poem that Dr. Holmes wrote. That place must be given to "The Chambered Nautilus."

Dr. Holmes is best known for his "Autocrat" papers, but preferred writing in rhyme to prose composition. Much of his poetry is the lighter vein, and in "The Last Leaf" he has combined a certain drolliness with sentiment and real pathos.

Old men will read these verses with a sigh, realising their truth. Young men will read them with a smile, because in youth age seems far away.

If you want to read other poems about old age read "A Late Lark," by Henley; "The Human Seasons," by Keats; "Life," by Lizette Woodworth Reese; a splendid sonnet by a little-known writer, "Rabbi Ben Ezra," by Browning; "An Old Man's Song," by Le Gallienne, or "Carcassonne," by the French poet, Nadaud, of which there are several translations, the best one perhaps being by John R. Thompson.

Other poems by Holmes worth perusal, if not study, are "The Chambered Nautilus," "The Deacon's Masterpiece," "Old Ironsides" and "The Height of the Ridiculous."

THE LAST LEAF

I saw him once before,
As he passed by the door,
And again
The pavement stones resound,
As he totters o'er the ground
With his cane.

They say that in his prime,
Ere the pruning-knife of Time
Cut him down,
Not a better man was found
By the Crier on his round
Through the town.

But now he walks the streets,
And he looks at all he meets
Sad and wan,
And he shakes his feeble head,
That it seems as if he said,
"They are gone."

The mossy marbles rest
On the lips that he has pressed
In their bloom,
And the names he loved to hear
Have been carved for many a year
On the tomb.

My grandmamma has said,—
Poor old lady, she is dead
Long ago,—
That he had a Roman nose,
And his cheek was like a rose
In the snow.

But now his nose is thin,
And it rests upon his chin
Like a staff,
And a crook in his back,
And a melancholy crack
In his laugh.

I know it is a sin
For me to sit and grin
At him here;
But the old three-cornered hat
And the breeches, and all that,
Are so queer!

And if I should live to be
The last leaf upon the tree
In the Spring,
Let them smile, as I do now,
At the old forsaken bough
Where I cling.

Little Bobbie's Pa

By WILLIAM F. KIRK

Pa had Mister Brooks up to the house last nite to dinner and Mister Brooks ate four (4) eggs.

I thot yure frend was going to kackel wen he sed Goodnite, sed Ma after Mister Brooks had went.

Why? sed Pa.

On account of the Henfruit wich he put away, sed Ma. I thot he was going to eat the shells and all.

Well, sed Pa, poor old Brooksy lives in hotels around the state, sed Pa, and laitly the hotels are gitting kind of skimpy with thare eggs. Eggs is so high, Pa sed.

It wud keep him pressed for munny if thay charged him by the egg, sed Ma. What in the wurld is the reeson eggs shud go up so high wen hens is jest as plenty as thay evver was and works jest the same hours, sed Ma.

Everything is the saim, sed Pa. This is the Rocket Age, with everything going up in the air a mile, sed Pa. I shudder to think, sed Pa, what the wurld will do wen evverything cums down like the burnt stick that was onst a giorus rocket, sed Pa.

How gloomy, sed Ma.

Yes, sed Ma, it is vary tragick. But it will soon ve caver for the longest life, sed Ma, so cheer up and lite a other cigar, sed Ma. That is one thing about this life wich nevver fails you, sed Ma, anil one thing that you nevver seem to tire of yure cigars. Sumtimes I git almost jellus of your cigars, you seem to luv them so, sed Ma.

I do, sed Pa, as Mister Shakespeer onst sed

O Woman, in our hour of Ease
Uncerting, Coy and hard to please,
Men know how vary sweet you are and like you neerly as much as thare cigar.

That is a noabel sentiment, sed Ma, have another.

No, sed Pa. I am vary careful laitly about my hart. Wen I git to my 20th cigar I chop off like a Marter, sed Pa.

You gritty man, sed Ma, I am so proud of yure iron Will.

We Should Live To 100

By BRICE BELDEN, M.D.

The newspapers told us a while ago how Dr. Stephen Smith, noted New York physician, had started west to celebrate his ninety-seventh birthday with old friends.

One of Dr. Smith's daughters explained to newspaper men that her father has grown increasingly fond of new scenes and faces with the march of years, so she wouldn't be surprised to learn that the birthday party was held anywhere between New York and San Francisco, though she was inclined to believe that he was probably with his old friend Dr. J. H. Kellogg, of Battle Creek, Michigan.

Dr. Smith is a very alert, active gentleman. The writer heard him deliver an address a couple of years ago that was full of pep. He is a living proof of his own belief that the natural span of life is one hundred years.

Dr. Smith has repeatedly asserted his belief that it has been proven through science that man was designed to live for a century. He argues that the human body is composed of bricks; that each atom has a certain function to perform and then dies, is removed from the body and its place is filled by a new atom of the same material; that this material varies according to the functions to be performed by the atom, as those composing bone, muscle, nerve, etc.; that by this process the entire body is continually being renewed. In other words, the human body is a machine which is so constructed that by constant renewal it will exist 100 years.

Now Dr. Smith did not begin to put his physical house in order until he was fifty. He had been a sufferer up to that time from indigestion and consequent auto-intoxication. Then he restricted himself to the simple life dietetically and otherwise, which, he says, insures to its votaries the possibility of living all their appointed days.

From his fiftieth birthday to the present time Dr. Smith has constantly improved in health. This remarkable man, born when John Adams, Thomas Jefferson and Lafayette were still living, has found, along with Mr. Edison, that if only a sufficiency of food is eaten after middle age most of the ills of the flesh are banished and efficiency is enhanced. It is fatal to eat to excess—unfortunately a far too common habit.

DELICIOUS CANDIES
Libby's CREAM
Never would you think that candy could be made at home so easily as this! It's no trick at all to make dainty bonbons, chocolates, stuffed dates and all kinds of fascinating sweets.
You don't even need to light the stove.
The base for them all is made by sifting two cups of powdered sugar and adding enough Libby's Cream to form a paste that can be handled. Work this with the hands until creamy, and flavor with any preferred flavoring.
To make coconut candy, roll small portions of this cream fondant in shredded coconut and stand on oiled paper to dry. For bonbons, color with vegetable coloring or add chopped nuts, raisins, figs or coconut. Or you can use the fondant to stuff stoned dates or figs.
The secret of the success of all these tempting candies lies in Libby's Cream. For its consistency is just right to combine with the sugar. Ask your grocer today for a can of this creamy milk that comes to you from rich dairying district and see how easily you can be your own candy maker.

MAN SHOT DEAD BY FEDERAL AGENT; FIRST DRY KILLING

Trapped By Revenue Officers In East Side Flat, Chauffeur Dies While Resisting

BULLET PIERCES HEART

Stewart McMullin, Deputy Collector, Says Victim Threatened Him With Knife.

New York, March 12.—The first killing due to attempted enforcement of the prohibition law came last night, when Henry Carton, a chauffeur, was shot and instantly killed by a Federal enforcement officer attempting to arrest the chauffeur in a flat in East Seventy-sixth Street. The enforcement agent, described as Deputy Internal Revenue Collector Stewart McMullin, was placed under arrest, charged technically with homicide.

According to the police, McMullin and three other agents met Carlton yesterday afternoon at the Hotel Claridge, where McMullin lives. The police said that the chauffeur told the agents that he could supply them with all the liquor they pretended to want. They were anxious to proceed at once to the liquor storage place, described by Carlton, but finally agreed to wait until last night.

By prearrangement the agents met last night and went to a flat at 234 East Seventy-sixth Street. They said they found Carlton waiting for them on the stoop and he led the way to the apartment of Carlo Carveni on the fourth floor. Arriving in the Carveni apartment, the agents declared, they found six cases of wine and about ten gallons of rye whisky.

OFFERED TO SELL LIQUOR

Protracted negotiations ensued, and finally, the agents asserted, Carlton agreed to sell them the liquor for $736. The money was passed over to Carlton, said the agents, and they then attempted to arrest him. They declared that they had scarcely disclosed their identity before Carlton made an attempt to get out through a window leading to a firescape.

The agents said they rushed forward and caught the chauffeur, pulling him back into the room. Once cornered, Carlton, according to the agents, drew a long knife, and threatening to use it, tried to make his way toward the door. McMullen said that he blocked the path and called upon Carlton to surrender. Instead, the chauffeur came on, knife in hand. Then McMullen pulled his trigger. One shot entered the chauffeur's left breast, penetrated the heart, and he fell.

Passing the flat house at the moment the shot was fired was Policeman Carles Reynolds, attached to the West 152d Street Station house, on his way from his home to report for duty. He ran up the stairs and entering the Carveni flat found the victim dead. The agents identified themselves, and Reynolds returned to the street and brought back Policeman John Nevell of the East Sixty-seventh Street Station. Nevell arrested McMullin on a technical charge of homicide.

Carvehi, the owner of the flat, also was arrested. The charge against him was violation of the Volstead act. Mrs Anna Carveni, wife of the alleged violator, was held as a material witness.

PRINCESS TELLS OF BOLSHEVISTS

Grant's Granddaughter Says Germans Brought About Present Regime In Russia

POLICE GUARD SPEAKER

Describes School And Factory Openings As Stages For Outsiders

New York, March 1.—With policemen standing in rear of the auditorium and around the entrances of the Church of St. John the Evangelist, 224 Waverly Place, Princess Cantacuzene-Speransky, granddaughter of General Grant, spoke there last night on "Bolshevism As I Knew It." Although she spoke in bitter terms of the Lenin-Trotsky regime, the presence of the police had a deterrent effect on the Soviet sympathisers who may have been in the church.

Before the service began the police discovered two men, believed to have been potential disturbers, hiding under seats in the gallery. As neither could give any good reason for prefering the floor to the cushioned seats they were escorted to the street. Following the address of the Princess a resolution, introduced by the Rev. Dr. John A. Wade, rector of the church, opposing the recognition of the Soviet Republic by the United States, was adopted. Only one man stood up to vote against the resolution.

Princess Cantacuzene charged that the present regime in Russia was brought about through German money which, she asserted was provided with a free hand by German spies sent by the hundreds across the frontier. She said she spoke not from hearsay but from actual knowledge gained from her residence in Russia during the rise of Lenin and Trotsky.

"There were German gold and documents in Lenin's house, some of which I personally saw," she said. "When my husband was commandant in Kieve he raided a Bolshevist nest and uncovered more evidence of German aid to this cause. There were gold coins of the French Government prior to 1870 which the Germans had seized and kept until this time."

THE FIRST REVOLUTION

When the first revolution occurred in Russia, rich and poor alike joined in thanking God for the new day which gave such hope of promise for the people she said. There was no class feeling and everyone was impelled with a desire to develop a Republic along the lines of the United States. The Princess told of some of the difficulties of the early days, pointing out that it should be kept in mind that masses had been accustomed to a paternal government and it was hard to make a quick readjustment.

"After three years of war our people were ready to keep their obligations with the Allies," she continued. Like the Americans they hated the Germans and wanted to do their share in putting down the enemy."

At this time, she said, the German spies began coming over the frontiers, supplied with plenty of money, and scattered into different parts of the country. Their first act was to get control of the printing presses of the cities on which they got out their propaganda.

"A friend of my husband's, who was Minister of War, wanted to get some orders printed for his department," the Princess said. "He soon found that the Germans controlled the presses and he had to wait until radical propaganda orders on hand were run off."

Telling of the rise in power of Lenin and Trotsky, she said these two leaders worked very cautiously at first. A fake demonstration was staged one day to feel out the attitude of the populace who displayed such indifference that it finally broke up into vague groups and disappeared.

MASSES IN CONFUSION

"It was three months later before the insidious doctrines preached by Lenin and Trotsky began to take effect," she continued. "And it was several months before a party feeling was apparent among the people. The mind of the masses was in a whirlwind with the rapidly changing conditions since the fall of the Tsar. Unfortunately, we did not have any counter propaganda to meet the preachments of the Soviet leaders, and so the idea spread rapidly as the weeks went on.

"It was a long time before the committee representing the Soviet Government visited our village. The population was going about its affairs without taking any interest in the Soviet doctrines, when suddenly we found the committee in our midst. They came, supplied with plenty of money and vodka. At first they found no response among our people, despite a generous distribution of money and drink. The committee was there eight weeks before they made their first convert.

"Then one night, after an orgy of drinking, urged by these radical leaders, the peasants burned our house and barns and destroyed our cattle and agricultural implements. I leave it to you to decide had this been a peasant movement, if the people who were to cultivate our 30,000 acres of land, if they eventually received it, would have destroyed the cattle and farm tools. I assert it was a movement from the outside fostered by German money, because, after the committee had accomplished its mission of destruction, they departed leaving our people in a distressing state."

The Princess said that Americans who had gone into Russia with interpreters had returned with wonderful stories of peaceful conditions which they had seen. They described in newspapers how they had seen schools open and factories operating, she went on, but those who had been in Russia during the rise of the Soviet Government knew that this was all staged for the benefit of outsiders.

SCHOOLS OPEN FOR ONE DAY

"To us who have seen Bolshevism enter Russia, all this has a different meaning," she said. "Remembering how the Bolsheviki do things, we know that schools have been opened just for one day to make an impression on visitors. If you ask what can be done to help Russia at this late day, I can only say that to spread among the people here an understanding of how the Soviet movement was aided by German money and to provide food and clothing for the thousands who are suffering on the fringe of Russia will be the best means."

MAN'S GUILT IS SAME AS WOMAN'S

Judge Reverses Magistrate's Decision In Case Where Men Went Free

New York, March 1.—In reversing a conviction for immoral conduct in a Magistrate's Court, Judge William H. Wadhams of General Sessions, in a decision made public yesterday, declared that the man was equally guilty with the woman in such a case and that the time had come when it would no longer be permitted to let the man go and arrest the the woman.

Judge Wadhams's decision was in the case of Beatrice Edwards, who lives in Manhattan Avenue. She was found guilty last April before Magistrate McGeehan and placed on probation. The woman denied the stories told by the police and said that she was the victim of a conspiracy. Justice Wadhams dismissed the complaint and ordered the defendant discharged.

"I am sure that it has been the custom to arrest a woman and let the man go," said Judge Wadhams, "but the time has come when the custom cannot longer be permitted to continue. Men and women in such cases are equally guilty and the man should be arrested and held for trial with the woman. The law is clear and the duty of the police is to act in pursuance of the law.

"The practical application of the law as heretofore enforced is an unjust discrimination against women in the matter of an offense which in its very nature requires the participation of men. Is the public purpose not to enforce the law? If so, it is hypocrisy to permit the law to remain upon the statute books.

"As long as the law exists it must be impartially administered without sex discrimination."

Judge Wadhams throughout his decision insists as he has done in other decisions recently that policemen and Magistrates must be guided by the amendment to the vagrancy law passed by the Legislature last May which provides that the man involved with the woman in a violation of the law is equally guilty with the woman.

Beatrice Edwards was arrested last April by Detectives John L. Sullivan and John J. Miller of headquarters, who charged that she and another woman with whom she lived entertained men in their apartment. Each officer testified that a complaint had been received, and that they went to the apartment and forced their way in. In his decision Judge Wadhams says that in their testimony both detectives use almost identical words as to conversations with the women and described the men found in the apartment with exact similarity as to height, weight and complexion.

Neither of the men was arrested by the detectives, although they asserted that they had taken their names and addresses. Judge Wadhams, commenting on this fact, says:

"This is not justice," and in characterising the testmony of the detectives, says: "This evidence has all the earmarks of fabrication. The description of the men was so minute and agreed so completely in all its details as to satisfy the court that it was a prepared description.

"On cross-examination by counsel for the defendant Officer Sullivan testified that when the defendant, Broomhead, (the other woman arrested) was taken to the police station she wore a skirt and blue suit or belt coat and a checked gingham apron. When pressed as to this apron the officer said he would not say that she did or did not wear it to the station house. If, as the officer testified, the defendants were not dressed for the street at the time the officer entered the apartment, it seems highly improbable that one of them would put on an apron over her clothing to go to a station house.

"It appears from the officers' testimony that the men made admissions which, if they had been willing to stand by them would have made them State witnesses to the truth of the charge, but although they admitted participating in the offense they were permitted to go.

"The law is not retroactive and although the guilt of the alleged men is not in issue in this case—the arrest took place in April and the law was not amended until May—the failure to produce them is a circumstance which the Court takes into consideration in determining whether the charge against the woman has been sustained."

Judge Wadhams sailed for Europe last Saturday to lecture to men in the American Army of Occupation during his vacation. He will return in May. Before sailing he ordered the decision to be filed yesterday.

Magistrate McGeehan declined to comment on the case. "Judge Wadhams says the woman is innocent and I must abide by the decision," he said. "His decision is an interesting lecture on sociology. I understand that he has gone to Europe to lecture to the soldiers in the Army of Occupation. I hope he returns in good health and in time to start his campaign for the Gubernatorial nomination. I can't vote for him, because I am a Democrat."
